OLIVER S. BAKETEL, D.D.
Editor of The Methodist Year Book and
The General Minutes
1910–1930

DEDICATION

This volume is affectionately dedicated to Dr. Oliver Sherman Baketel, who for twenty years has edited THE METHODIST YEAR BOOK and the General Minutes. The products of those twenty years have made his name known to every minister in the church and to the laymen who made the YEAR BOOK one of the working tools of their church craftsmanship. It is not necessary, therefore, to use many words in paying tribute to his labors. Indeed, a formal appreciation is hardly needed at all, because those twenty volumes of the Year Book and the forty volumes of the General Minutes constitute a tribute more eloquent and appropriate than anything that might be recorded herein. They speak of loyal service, persistent diligence, and a patience that should be envied by all of us.

Doctor Baketel has given nearly fifty-one years of service to the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was born at Greentown, Ohio, October 25, 1849. He entered the ministry in 1870. Until 1877 he was a member of the Pittsburgh Conference. Then he transferred to the New Hampshire Conference. From 1877 to 1891 he served pastorates and from 1891 to 1903 he served as Presiding Elder in that Conference. From 1903 to 1910 he was with the Board of Sunday Schools. From 1910 to 1930 he edited the YEAR BOOK and General Minutes. On May 1st he retired from this latter work and became Librarian of the Methodist Historical Society in New York City. His office is at 150 Fifth Ave., New York City. His home is in Maplewood, N. J.

PREFACE

The new editor has not been able to produce a YEAR BOOK exactly like those of his predecessor. This will probably be a disappointment to all who for twenty years have found the YEAR BOOK quite satisfying and useful. But it is hoped that the changes made will prove to have some merits, and that the differences between this and the former volumes will not detract from the usefulness of the present book.

While Doctor Baketel is in no way responsible for the plan and contents of the YEAR BOOK for 1931, his counsel and willingness to share his rich experience with the new editor have helped the latter to a very great extent in reaching decisions about what should be included and how the contents should be arranged. The new editor is deeply indebted to Doctor Baketel for the help he has given so cordially and freely.

It is hardly necessary to say that the YEAR BOOK for 1931 does not approach what the editor desired it to be. His dominant purpose has been to make it chiefly a record and interpretation of what the Church has accomplished during the year 1930. He has found that there are many things which conspire to make the realization of such a purpose difficult, and that it will take time to develop a system that will overcome the difficulties. But a beginning on such a system has been made, and perhaps the next issue of the YEAR BOOK will come nearer to being what the editor desires it to be.

In the preparation of this Year Book the editor has had the cordial and willing assistance of all who must provide the information. All concerned have rendered valuable help—this in spite of the fact that in nearly every instance they had to hurry in making their reports.

Obviously mistakes have crept into the book, although great care has been taken to verify everything included. The editor will appreciate receiving information about such mistakes.

Further, there are some matters omitted that have a place in the YEAR BOOK. It is hoped that the users of the book will freely make suggestions about the contents of it—what will make the book more useful as a reference book and as a textbook for use in acquainting the members of our churches with the program and progress of the denomination. Your opinions will be gratefully received and carefully considered.

With these inadequate explanations the YEAR BOOK for 1931 joins the company of its ninety-seven predecessors.

SECTION II

DIRECTORY OF ORGANIZATIONS, EXECUTIVES, EDITORS, GENERAL CONFERENCE OFFICERS AND COMMISSIONS

The purpose of this section of the YEAR BOOK is to provide in a ready-reference arrangement a complete directory of the General Conference Officers and Commissions, Executives, Editors, Organizations and Institutions of the Church. The order of the groups carries no implications in respect to importance or priority. The aim has been to arrange the material so that desired items could be located easily. Related groups have been kept as near together as possible. However, the arrangement is not to be construed as indicating organic relationships. No doubt there are mistakes and omissions. The editor will appreciate information about them.

WORKERS AT OTHER THAN METHODIST INSTITUTIONS

1. Where there is only one name it is that of a regular pastor of a Methodist Episcopal Church with an organized student work, except at Lincoln, Nebraska, where one university pastor co-operates with the pastors of several churches and at Huntsville, Alabama, where the worker is chaplain of the institution.

2. Where there are two names, the first is pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The second, as a rule, is a full-time associate or assistant.

3. The asterisk (*) indicates a co-operative worker supported by several denominations.

General Conference Secretaries

The names of the General Conference Secretaries were not recorded previous to the year 1800. Then for twelve quadrenniums they chose a new man each time. Only in 1836 they elected the same person who had served in 1832.

1800 Nicholas Snethen, of Baltimore Conference, a Pastor.

1804 John Wilson, of New York Conference, Editor and Assistant Book Agent at New York.

1808 William Penn Chandler, of Philadelphia Conference, Presiding Elder.

1812 Daniel Hitt, of New York Conference, Editor and Book Agent.

1816 Louis R. Fechtig, of Baltimore Conference, Pastor.

1820 Alexander M'Caine, of New York Conference, Pastor.

1824 John Emory, of New York Conference, Book Agent at New York.

1828 Martin Ruter, of Ohio Conference, Book Agent at Cincinnati.

1832–36 Thomas L. Douglass, of Tennessee Conference, Supernumerary, Nashville.

1840 John A. Collins, of Baltimore Conference, Presiding Elder.

1844 Thomas B. Sargent, of Baltimore Conference, Presiding Elder.

1848–52 Joseph M. Trimble, of Ohio Conference, Presiding Elder.

1856–72 William L. Harris, of Central Ohio Conference, College Professor.

In 1860 he was elected by the General Conference an Assistant Secretary of the Missionary Society, which position he held until May 23, 1872, when the General Conference elected him a Bishop. On that day he resigned and they chose as his successor:

1872–80 George W. Woodruff, of New York East Conference, Pastor. (Doctor Woodruff was a member of the Providence Conference in 1876.)

1884–1900 David S. Monroe, of Central Pennsylvania Conference, Pastor and later a Presiding Elder.

1904–12 Joseph B. Hingeley, Northern Minnesota Conference, Presiding Elder and later Corresponding Secretary of the Board of Conference Claimants, now Board of Pensions and Relief.

1916 Edwin Locke, of Kansas Conference, Pastor.

1920 Edmund M. Mills, of Central New York Conference, District Superintendent.

1924–1928 Raymond J. Wade, Secretary of World's Service Commission. (Elected Bishop May 23.)

1928 John M. Arters. (Elected May 23 to fill vacancy.) Pastor in Maine Conference.

Publishing Agents

From the beginning none but ministers were selected for this position until 1872, when John M. Phillips was elected. Since then four other laymen have been chosen—Samuel H. Pye, who served at Chicago, 1900–04, and E. R. Graham from 1904, with headquarters at the Chicago Depository, but designated Agent at New York by Book Committee in 1916 (where he continued to the time of his death). Robert H. Hughes was elected in 1920, and served at Chicago. In 1924 O. Grant Markham was elected and designated by the Book Committee to Chicago.

The General Conference of 1912 completed the unification of the Book Concern so that there are now not two "Concerns," but THE METHODIST BOOK CONCERN, with headquarters and Publishing Houses at New York, 150 Fifth Ave.; Cincinnati, 420 Plum St.; Chicago, 740 Rush St. Depositories—Boston, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, San Francisco, and Portland, Ore.

A list of all who have served in this capacity and the years of their election follows. The name of the second person was called the "Assistant" up to 1872, at which time they were made co-ordinate.

1789 John Dickins, Philadelphia.

1799 Ezekiel Cooper, Philadelphia.

1804 Ezekiel Cooper, John Wilson, New York.

1808 John Wilson, Daniel Hitt, New York.

1812 Daniel Hitt, Thomas Ware, New York.

SECTION IV

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

The persons included in this section have been chosen because of the offices they hold. The groups are arranged in the same order used in the Discipline, but the names in each group are arranged alphabetically to facilitate their location. Obviously, not all the honors achieved by the various persons could be included in the sketches. The aim has been to include only those items that bear especially upon the individual's career in the church and provide information of interest to the church's members.

SECTION V

NECROLOGY

This section contains the names of the ministers who have died between December 1, 1929, and December 1, 1930. The sources of our information are the Conference Minutes, the Christian Advocates, and the Conference secretaries. As this is the first year this section has been included, and a system of gathering the data had to be devised and set in operation in a period of only a few months, it is probable that some names have been omitted. The editor will be grateful for corrections and data on those who may not be included.

ENGLISH METHODISM

English Methodism had its birth in the University of Oxford, where the Wesleys and the members of the Holy Club received the nickname Methodist. The first Methodist Society of England was formed in 1739, and in 1744 Mr. Wesley held his first Conference at the Foundry, in London.

The mother church of all is the Wesleyan Methodist Church, which held its one hundred and eighty-fifth Conference in July. The Publishing House is at 25–35 City Road, London, E. C., 1; Book Steward is Rev. J. Alfred Sharp, D.D.; Connectional Editor, Rev. John Telford, B.A.

The Methodist Church of Ireland in June last held the one hundred and fifty-ninth session of the Conference. The Irish Christian Advocate is published at 75 Rosemary Street, Belfast.

The Primitive Methodist Church, called at first "Camp Meeting Methodists," began in 1810, and since 1824 has made steady progress. The Publishing House is at Holborn Hall, Clerkenwell Road, London, E. C., 1. Rev. John Swinden, Book Steward; Rev. J. C. Mantripp, Connectional Editor.

The United Methodist Church, composed of the New Connection, the Bible Christians, and the United Methodist Free Churches, was formed in 1907. Publishing House, 12 Farrington Avenue, London, E. C., 4. Book Steward, Rev. Henry Hooks.

The Wesleyan Reform Union separated from Wesleyan Methodism in 1850, and was organized as a separate body in 1859. It is one of the smaller branches that has not yet been absorbed.

Independent Methodist Churches. These began in 1796, and united with other societies in 1806. The title was changed twice, but in 1898 the old name was resumed. The annual meeting was held in June, 1929.

The first "class meeting" in Australian Methodism was held in 1812, and the first Conference in 1855. Their Publishing Houses are: In Sidney, the Rev. J. Bryant, Book Steward; Melbourne, Rev. H. H. Williams, Book Steward; Adelaide, Rev. C. H. Ingamells, Book Steward; Brisbane, Rev. Dr. Youngman, Book Steward; Perth, Rev. A. J. Barclay, Book Steward.

South Africa. The forty-sixth Conference of the Wesleyan Methodists of South Africa met in 1929. Their Publishing House is located at 23 Strand Street, Cape Town. Rev. W. Eveleigh, Book Steward.

If all the plans work well these three English Methodist Churches in Great Britain will be one in 1933.

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH

This body was organized in 1845, at which time they reported 1,474 preachers, 2,750 local preachers and 333,710 members. The report for 1928 shows 8,321 preachers, 4,891 local preachers, and 2,631,570 members; a growth in eighty years of 6,847 preachers, 2,141 local preachers, and 2,297,860 members. They have 56 Conferences and Missions, 42 in the United States and 14 in Foreign Countries.

CONGREGATIONAL METHODIST CHURCH

The Congregational Methodist Church separated from the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, on the question of episcopacy and itinerancy. The church was formed at Forsyth, Ga., in 1852 when a number of members united to secure a more democratic form of church government. The doctrine is similar to the Methodist bodies, while its polity is congregational in some respects. The internal affairs of the church are controlled by the church conference, which includes all the church officers. However, these affairs are reviewable by the district, annual, and general conferences. Periodical, The Messenger, published at Anniston, Ala. Churches, 357; ministers, 487; members, 21,050.

FREE METHODIST CHURCH

The Free Methodist Church had its origin in 1860 in the Genesee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Benjamin T. Roberts published several articles protesting against certain practices in the church. He was reprimanded, but later, when the same articles were republished by a layman, Mr. Roberts was expelled. Hundreds of ministers and laymen withdrew and formed the Free Methodist Church, electing Mr. Roberts the first general superintendent. They adopted the Articles of Faith of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with two additional ones. Bishops are elected for four years, but may be re-elected. The church insists upon practical observance of the general rules, and excludes instrumental music and choirs from public worship. Churches, 1,279; ministers, 1,399; members, 40,827.

HOLINESS METHODIST CHURCH

This body was organized in 1900 in Robeson County, N. C. It was originally known as the Lumbee Mission Conference of the Holiness Methodist Church, but was later changed to the Lumbee River Annual Conference of the Holiness Methodist Church. Its doctrine and polity are in agreement with other branches of Methodism. Churches, 7; members, 459. (1926 census.)

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

The Methodist Protestant Church was formed as the result of the failure of the Methodist Episcopal Church to concede lay representation in the Conferences. In 1828, in Baltimore, the name of The Associated Methodist Churches was adopted, but was changed in 1830 to the Methodist Protestant Church. In doctrine it is the same as the Methodist Episcopal Church. In polity, however, it differs. The Methodist Protestant Church has no bishops or life officers of any kind. It makes ministers and laymen equal in number and power in the legislative bodies of the church. Churches, 2,218; ministers, 2,175; members, 195,460.

NEW CONGREGATIONAL METHODIST CHURCH

In southern Georgia, in 1881, the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, felt compelled by financial stringency to cut off some of its work, and it consolidated several of the smaller churches without their consent. These churches protested and decided to form a church on the plan of the Congregational Methodist Church. They adopted the Methodist system of doctrine and the Congregational polity. They permitted foot-washing in connection with the administration of the Lord's Supper. The territory occupied is chiefly the southern part of Georgia and northern part of Florida. Churches, 26; ministers, 25; members, 1,229.

THE PRIMITIVE METHODIST CHURCH OF AMERICA

The Camp Meeting was a result of the evangelizing movement of the nineteenth century, and was distinctively American. Lorenzo Dow, well known in early Methodism as an eccentric character, introduced this American camp meeting in England in 1807. The converts of these meetings were called "Camp Meeting Methodists," but as they were not welcomed into the Wesleyan Connection, the Primitive Methodist Church was formed. Emigration brought many of the converts to America, and in 1844 the Church in America was organized. In polity the church is very democratic. There are no bishops or district superintendents, and women are eligible to offices, including the ordained ministry. Periodical, Primitive Methodist Journal (monthly), Lonsdale, R. I. Churches, 82; ministers, 82; members, 12,059.

REFORMED METHODIST CHURCH

The Reformed Methodist Church was begun in 1814 at Readsborough, Vermont, by some members of the Methodist Episcopal Church who had become dissatisfied with the episcopal form of church government. A Community was started on a farm in Vermont, but the venture failed. Thousands were converted in revivals, but in 1840 they began to merge with other Methodist bodies. Some entered the Methodist Protestant Church and some the Wesleyan Methodist. Their doctrine is distinctively Methodist, but they are congregational in polity. The annual and general conferences are both delegated bodies. They have missionary work in the Island of Dominica, British West Indies. Churches, 14; ministers, 14; members, 401.

WESLEYAN METHODIST CONNECTION

In 1841 a society was formed in Michigan which took the name of Wesleyan Methodists. A little later a convention was called to prepare for the organization of a church that should be anti-slavery and non-episcopal. The result was the formation, in 1843, at Utica, N. Y., of the Wesleyan Methodist Connection (or Church) of America. Its doctrine and polity are in accord with Methodism, although it is not an episcopal body. It barred from membership all persons connected with slavery, or in any way with the manufacture or sale of intoxicants, and all persons who were members of secret societies. Churches, 650; ministers, 700; members, 23,000.

AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

An agitation began in Philadelphia as early as 1787, when a company of colored Methodists, dissatisfied with existing conditions, and hoping to secure larger privileges and more freedom of action than they believed possible in continued association with their white brethren, and also to avoid certain humiliating discriminations practiced against them, withdrew and built a chapel. This church remained under the jurisdiction of the Methodist Episcopal Church until 1814, when it was announced that "white preachers could no longer maintain pastoral responsibility for colored congregations." As a result, in 1816, the African Methodist Episcopal Church was organized. Its doctrine and polity are similar to the parent church. Churches, 7,390; ministers, 7,315; members, 781,692.

AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL ZION CHURCH

In New York City, in 1796, James Varick, Abraham Thompson, William Miller, and others who were colored men, belonging to the John Street Methodist Church, though desiring to be by themselves, exercising their own spiritual gifts and working for the benefit of their own people, a very laudable ambition, surely, gathered their officers together and built a church in the year 1800, which they called Zion. They entered into articles of agreement with the Methodist Episcopal Church, by which they were supplied with ordained preachers until 1820. Finding that an organization had been effected in Wilmington and Philadelphia as a separate denomination, it made them of this church uneasy, and they asked for ordained ministers of color, but it was not granted, so they decided to organize a Conference in New York City, at which time there were 6 churches, 19 preachers, and 1,426 members. James Varick is generally spoken of as the founder of the denomination and was made District Chairman. When their organization was complete he was made their first bishop. They have continued working faithfully, having various difficulties, but they have adjusted them in one way or another. Churches, 3,882; ministers, 3,460; members, 500,000.

AFRICAN UNION METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

This organization is a union of the African Union Church and the First Colored Methodist Protestant Church. The former originated in 1813 when the Union Church of Africa was organized. In 1850 there was a division over the interpretation of the discipline, and the African Union Church and the Union American Methodist Episcopal Church resulted. The African Union Church united with the First Colored Methodist Protestant Church in 1866, and the name adopted was "The African Union First Colored Methodist Protestant Church of America or Elsewhere." It came to be known as the African Union Methodist Protestant Church. Its doctrine, in general, is identical with that of the Methodist Episcopal Church, while its polity is that of the Methodist Protestant Church. It carries on no foreign missionary work, and its home missionary work is conducted by the pastors. Churches, 650; ministers, 675; members, 27,000.

COLORED METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

This body was organized at Jackson, Tennessee, in 1870, and was composed of the colored membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, set off by mutual agreement. In doctrine the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church is in complete harmony with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Its polity also is essentially the same. The General Conference is composed of bishops and delegates elected from the annual conferences, both ministers and laymen in equal numbers. Church headquarters are at Jackson, Tenn., where a publishing house is situated. Churches, 3,601; ministers, 2,619; members, 338,771.

COLORED METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

In 1840 about 100 members of Negro Methodist churches in Maryland and adjoining States met in Elkton, Cecil County, Md., and organized the Colored Methodist Protestant Church on essentially the same principles as those on which the Methodist Protestant Church had been organized some few years previously. They adopted the book of discipline of the Methodist Church and the general polity of the Methodist Protestant Church, emphasizing equal rights for members, both lay and clerical. In doctrine they are in hearty sympathy with the Methodist churches; in polity they have no episcopacy, their ministers being simply elders. They have adopted an organization for missionary work, but have not as yet developed it greatly. Churches, 3; members, 533. (1926 census.)

THE INDEPENDENT AFRICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

This body was organized in 1897 at Jacksonville, Florida, as the result of disagreements in the African Methodist Episcopal Church over church administration. In 1900 there was another schism in the denomination, when a group withdrew from the parent church and became the Independent African Methodist Episcopal Church at Coldwater, Miss. These bodies remained independent of each other until 1919, when articles of confederation were drawn up and signed, and at a General Conference in 1920 they were ratified. The independent African Methodist Episcopal Church follows closely the doctrine and organization of the parent church. The members assess themselves 50 cents per capita annually for the maintenance of the general funds of the church and special assessments are made for specific objects, such as home missions. Churches, 29; members, 1,003. (1926 census.)

REFORMED METHODIST UNION EPISCOPAL CHURCH
(Colored)

In 1884 a number of ministers and members of the African Methodist Episcopal Church withdrew from that body on account of differences in regard to the election of ministerial delegates to the General Conference. In January, 1885, a convention of delegates representing churches in South Carolina and Georgia was held, and the Independent Methodist Church was organized. The Rev. William E. Johnston was elected president, emphasizing thus the non-episcopal character of the denomination. Later, however, in 1896, it was decided to make a change in this respect and create an episcopacy, on the ground that the body would thus acquire more permanent force and recognition among Methodist Episcopal churches, and the name "Reformed Methodist Union Episcopal Church" was adopted. In 1899 the Rev. E. Russell Middleton was elected bishop by the General Conference, and in December of that year he was consecrated by the Right Rev. Peter F. Stevens (white) of the Reformed Episcopal Church.

In 1916 they "adopted the full polity of the Methodist Episcopal Church" and created the office of Presiding Elder. Churches, 27; ministers, 51; members, 1,904.

REFORMED ZION UNION APOSTOLIC CHURCH
(Colored)

At the close of the Civil War the Negro Methodists in southeastern Virginia were no longer permitted to gather for worship in the white churches. For several years they endeavored to form an organization to meet their needs, and in 1869, James R. Howell, a minister of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, met with them and formed the Zion Union Apostolic Church. Several years later the church was completely disorganized, but in 1881 John M. Bishop gathered the members together and reorganized the church under the name of Reformed Zion Union Apostolic Church. The doctrine and polity of the Methodist Episcopal Church are, in general, accepted. Churches, 58; ministers, 43; members, 4,086.

UNION AMERICAN METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
(Colored)

In 1805 colored members of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church in Wilmington, Delaware, withdrew and erected a building for themselves. Since they desired to have self-rule, in 1812 Peter Spencer, the founder, and his followers withdrew from the Methodist Episcopal Church and formed an independent organization called the Union Church of Africans. In 1850 a division arose over the interpretation of the discipline, and out of the division arose the African Union Church and the Union American Methodist Episcopal Church. The doctrine and polity are similar to those of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Churches, 307; ministers, 324; members, 22,259.

SECTION VII

CO-OPERATIVE AGENCIES

The Methodist Episcopal Church approves and practices the principle of co-operation with other organizations promoting the religious and moral welfare of humanity. Wherever there is opportunity it is officially represented in agencies so engaged. The Church places no impediments in the way of its ministers and laity in respect to engaging with other organizations in whatever seeks to make life better for mankind. This is attested by the fact that Methodists have always been prominent in the welfare work that is independent of denominational direction and control.

THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF AMERICA

The first State organization was initiated at Oberlin, Ohio, on May 24, 1893. The Anti-Saloon League of America was organized at Washington, D. C., December 18, 1895. The object of the League is as follows:

"The object of this League is the extermination of the beverage liquor traffic, for the accomplishing of which the allegiance of all who are in harmony with this object is invited. The League pledges itself to avoid affiliation with any political party as such, and to maintain an attitude of strict neutrality on all questions of public policy not directly and immediately concerned with the traffic in strong drink."

OFFICERS—President, Bishop Thomas Nicholson, Detroit, Mich.; General Superintendent, Rev. F. Scott McBride; Associate General Superintendent, Rev. Howard H. Russell, Westerville, Ohio; Secretary, S. E. Nicholson, 370 Seventh Ave., New York City; Treasurer, H. B. Sowers, Westerville, Ohio; General Manager of Publications, Ernest H. Cherrington, Westerville, Ohio; Director of Department of Education and Publicity, Ernest H. Cherrington, Driscoll Building, Washington, D. C.

Publication Office: Westerville, Ohio.

General Administrative Office: 30 Bliss Building, Washington, D. C.

THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA

The Council was born at the Interchurch Conference on Federation, held in New York City, Nov. 15-21, 1905. The Plan of Federation formulated at that conference was submitted to the denominations for approval during 1906–1908. It was ratified at Philadelphia, Dec. 2–8, 1908. In 1912, at Chicago, and in 1916, at St. Louis, the original Plan was amended. The Constitution now in force was adopted on Dec. 4, 1924.

Objects of the Council. I. To express the fellowship and catholic unity of the Christian Church. II. To bring the Christian bodies of America into united service for Christ and the world. III. To encourage devotional fellowship and mutual counsel concerning the spiritual life and religious activities of the churches. IV. To secure a larger combined influence for the churches of Christ in all matters affecting the moral and social condition of the people, so as to promote the application of the law of Christ in every relation of human life. V. To assist in the organization of local branches of the Federal Council to promote its aims in their communities.

Authority of the Council. It has no authority over the constituent bodies; its province is limited to the expression of its counsel and the recommending of a course of action in matters of common interest to the churches, local councils, and individual Christians. It has no authority to draw up a common creed or form of government or of worship, or in any way limit the full autonomy of the Christian bodies adhering to it.

Representation in the Council. Each adhering denomination is entitled to four members as a minimum, with additional members at the ratio of one to each 50,000 communicants, or major fraction thereof.

INTERNATIONAL COUNCIL OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

This organization takes the place of the International Sunday School Association. It was organized in 1922. It came into being as the result of the efforts of the leaders in religious education in the Protestant denominations to bring their forces into closer and more effective co-operation. During the past eight years five different organizations, each incorporated as a separate corporate entity, have been brought into a close co-operate relationship. These are: (1) The International Council of Religious Education; (2) The International Association of Daily Vacation Bible Schools; (3) The International Training School for Sunday School Leaders; (4) The World's Sunday School Association; (5) The Religious Education Foundation. With the exception of the World's Sunday School Association, which is administered by two general secretaries, one for North America and one for the British Section, the general secretary of the International Council is the responsive administrative officer of these bodies.

The work of the Council is administered by the following staff: General Secretary, Superintendent of Educational Administration, Bureau of Research, Board of Editors, Director of Children's Work, Director of Young People's Work, Director of Leadership Training, Director of Vacation and Week-Day Church Schools, and a Convention Manager.

General Office: 1516 Mallers Building, Chicago, Ill.

General Secretary: Hugh S. Magill.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

This is a co-operative organization of individuals who are leaders in religious, educational, cultural, and social organizations. It was organized in 1903. It has grown steadily in numbers and influence. In its membership are many of the most prominent religious leaders and educators of America. The purpose of the organization is to promote religious education along lines that are sound educationally. It maintains a bureau of information, a public reference library, and holds regional and national conventions. It conducts investigations and experiments. The official publication of the organization is Religious Education. The office is at 308 North Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

OFFICERS.—President, William Adams Brown, Union Theological Seminary, New York; Vice-President, Ernest Reckitt, Chicago, Ill.; General Secretary, Joseph M. Artman; Recording Secretary, William David Schermerhorn; Treasurer, David R. Forgan.

DIRECTORY OF SERVICE AGENCIES

This directory is included because the agencies listed are able and willing to provide ministers and religious workers with counsel and information about specific problems. The list is not exhaustive—the Handbook of the Churches, issued by the Federal Council of Churches, lists more than two hundred such agencies. The aim has been to select a representative number in each of the various fields covered. The omission of an agency is not to be construed as reflecting upon its work or standing. On the other hand, inclusion of an agency does not imply any official stand on the part of the Church respecting its polity and program.

SECTION VIII

THE CHURCH AT WORK

"There is no limit to what a good man can do, if he doesn't care who gets the credit." Author unknown—of course.

THE METHODIST BOOK CONCERN

New York—Cincinnati—Chicago

The Methodist Book Concern comprises the publishing interests of the Church. Its objects and purposes, according to the Discipline, are as follows: "the promotion of Christian education; the dissemination of moral and religious literature; the spread of Christianity by the publication, sale, and distribution of moral and religious literature; the transaction of such other business as is properly connected with book-publishing, book-making, and book-selling; the produce of the same to be applied for the benefit of the Traveling, Supernumerary, and Retired Preachers, their wives, widows, and children, in accordance with the Constitution and Discipline of the Church." (Discipline ¶¶ 427–428.)

The business had a very modest beginning. In 1789 the Rev. John Dickins, a preacher serving a church in Philadelphia, advanced $600 from his private savings with which to begin a printing concern. Fifteen years later it was moved to New York, where the Rev. Ezekiel Cooper administered it. In 1824 the Rev. Nathan Bangs became the publishing agent, and he put new life into the enterprise. The business was then located in a brick building 40 x 65 feet at 14 Crosby Street—the building erected in 1820, for the short-lived Wesleyan Academy, at a cost of $5,000. The Book Concern bought this property, the first it ever owned. There on September 9, 1826, was issued the first number of The Christian Advocate, the edition of 5,000 copies being printed on a hand press.

The homes of the Concern in New York have been as follows: 14 Crosby Street (1821–1833), 200 Mulberry Street (1833–1889), 150 Fifth Avenue (1889–). In 1920 the manufacturing plant was moved to leased property at 531 West Thirty-seventh Street, where it remained until 1926 when a fine location was secured at Dobbs Ferry and a modern publishing plant erected thereon. Dobbs Ferry is about twenty miles north of New York City, on the banks of the Hudson River.

The offices of the New York establishment are at 150 Fifth Avenue, where they have been since 1889. From 1804, when the Concern was moved to New York, to 1825 the offices were in several different places. From 1825 to 1869 they were at 200 Mulberry Street. From 1869 to 1889 they were at 805 Broadway.

Very early it was found that the interests to be served by the Book Concern were too extensive to be attended to from the eastern side of the continent only. In 1820 a branch house, called a Depository, was opened in Cincinnati. This developed into one of the main establishments of the Concern. In 1852 a Depository was opened at Chicago. In 1928 this became one of the main establishments also. Other Depositories now operated as such are located in Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Kansas City, San Francisco, and Portland, Ore.

The Methodist Book Concern is administered by three Publishing Agents and the Book Committee, all elected by the General Conference.

It publishes the Official Advocates, the Methodist Review, the Church

School Publications, the Epworth Herald, the Methodist Year Book, the General Minutes, and the books approved by the Book Editor. A complete list of these publications will be found at the end of this article.

CHURCH SCHOOL PUBLICATIONS

The first Sunday-school publication of the Methodist Episcopal Church was a monthly journal of thirty-six pages entitled "The Youth's Instructor and Guardian." This was established in 1823. A prominent feature of this journal from the first was a systematic course of Bible lessons and other forms of supplementary religious instruction which it contained.

From these slight beginnings the publications have increased in number and widened in scope until the annual output now runs into almost unbelievable figures.

At present the editor of Church School Publications is responsible for four types of curriculum material:

I. The Closely Graded Courses

These are based upon the modern educational approach; they are life centered in the sense that they start from the treatment of real situations in the life of childhood and youth. Recent revision emphasizes the biblical material which is used to interpret the life situations, thus closely relating Bible truth and story to life and character.

II. The International Group Lessons

This series includes the Primary, Boys' and Girls' (Junior), and Intermediate Quarterlies, and Studies for Youth for the Senior Department. Each lesson is suggested by definite selections of Scripture. But these lessons are pupil centered in the sense that the needs and capacities of pupils in the various age groups determine the selection of Scripture lessons, and the lesson treatments are prepared by writers who are thoroughly trained in modern psychology and pedagogy. The series is intended for use in schools where department-graded material is desired rather than the closely graded courses.

III. The International Uniform Lessons

These continue to be widely used in Intermediate, Senior, and Adult departments. No finer treatments of these lessons can be found anywhere than in our Illustrated and Senior Quarterlies, in the Church School Journal, Adult Bible Class Monthly and Home Department Quarterlies. Scholarship, interest and practical interpretation are admirably combined in the work of these lesson writers.

IV. Elective or Special Courses

These are issued in book form and are intended for use by those senior and adult classes which desire to follow a specific line of study. Here is a wide field of choice and authorship. Among them should be grouped the dated and undated units which are being developed by the editor of Epworth League publications.

A complete list of these four types of curriculum material may be had at any time by applying to the nearest office of The Methodist Book Concern or to the editor of Church School or Epworth League publications.

Our Journals and Periodicals

Our Journals and Periodicals contain, in addition to lesson treatments, magazine sections in which are editorials and contributed articles by the best writers we can secure on subjects of interest to all pastors, teachers, and church workers. We are trying to give the utmost value to teaching helps in the Church School Journal for workers among young people and adults, the Elementary Magazine for children's workers, and First Steps in Christian Nurture, a magazine for parents.

Story Papers

The Story Papers are rich in wholesome and entertaining reading for boys and girls and young people. The Picture Story Paper for little children, the Target for boys, the Portal for girls and the Classmate for young people are widely read and appreciated.

The work is carried on by an Editorial Staff organized under the following departments: Dept. of Adult and Home Publications; Dept. of Young People's Publications; Dept. of Children's Publications; and an Art Editor.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

740 Rush St., Chicago, Ill.

General Statement

The Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church is an organization chartered under the laws of the State of New York. As at present constituted, it is a combination of four previously existing boards of the church, namely, the Board of Education, the Board of Education for Negroes, the Board of Sunday Schools and the Board of Epworth League, this merger having been effected by the General Conference of 1924.

The Board carries on its work through two major Divisions: (1) The Division of Educational Institutions, which includes all matters relating to secondary schools, colleges, universities and professional schools for both whites and Negroes (including the administration of the Student Loan Fund and Wesley Foundation work); (2) the Division of Religious Education in the Local Church, which has charge of religious education as carried out in and through the local church.

DIVISION OF EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTIONS

At the Christmas Conference of 1784 the Methodist Episcopal Church was organized, and a report, previously formulated, was adopted to establish a college at Abingdon, Md. The subsequent growth of educational institutions makes it obvious that the two actions were not merely coincidences. From the very simple beginnings at Cokesbury College, which was in operation from 1785 to 1795, a great system has developed embracing forty-two colleges and universities, three junior colleges, twenty-five secondary schools, and a remarkable group of schools of theology. In the report for 1926–27 they show an investment of over $78,000,000 in campuses, buildings and equipment, holdings in productive endowment of $69,000,000 and expenditures on the educational program of the year totalling $17,000,000. They list faculties of 4,510 and an enrollment during the academic year of over 86,000.*

The schools are of every type and have programs to meet the particular needs of their constituencies. Some are largely local in character, others recruit their student bodies from the whole of the United States and many foreign lands. Provision is made for instruction in all the professions and in the great university catalogues one finds a remarkable array of subjects that indicate how widespread are the services of the institutions.

The Methodist Episcopal Church is served by a group of splendid schools of theology, which heretofore have been almost entirely supported by a few individuals of rare vision and generosity. The General Conference of 1928, however, prompted by church-wide consciousness of the church's dependence upon these schools and its indebtedness to them for their large contribution of trained leadership, enacted legislation providing for some increased budget support for the schools of theology.

At the heart of this system of schools and auxiliary agencies is the Board of Education. It began with no prestige and little authority. The declaration of purpose was broad and the charter provided for expanding service. But the government and the support of educational institutions were mainly local. The schools determined for themselves the scope of their work and the courses of study they would offer. They recognized neither obligation to each other nor responsibility to a central body.

There has been no infringement on the local autonomy of the schools, but all have come to an increasing appreciation of the benefits of co-operation. The Board of Education stands in the capacity of counsellor to them in matters of business and finance, and has tried to give a common distribution to the experiences and successes of all who wrestle with this difficult aspect of administration. In the highly technical field of educational administration it has attempted to serve as a clearing house for the experimental work now in process and the best practices thus far evolved.

Children's Day and the Student Loan Fund

While the interest in general education and a trained ministry goes back to the very beginnings of the church in the United States, it was not until the General Conference of 1868 that formal provision was made for student aid through the observance of Children's Day. From the comparatively small offering of those early days Children's Day collections have increased year by year until for the year ending June 30, 1930, we have reached the figure of $155,940. During the history of the Fund 41,089 persons have borrowed a total of $5,818,888.

* A survey of all the educational institutions is now in progress and will bring the statistics down to June 30, 1931.

The Children's Day collection, moneys repaid by borrowers, and special gifts for the purpose make up the Fund available from year to year. It is evident that this Fund makes church-wide appeal, for interest in it is unwavering and it grows steadily.

Methodist young people desiring aid and who are attending Methodist secondary schools, colleges and universities, and theological schools may make application to the Loan Officer at the institutions attended.

Provision is made under certain restrictions for loans to our young people at non-Methodist institutions. For information about this possibility, application should be made directly to the Board of Education, 740 Rush St., Chicago.

The Fund is so administered as to take into account the intent of the church to help every possible worthy young person and at the same time is guarded in its business administration so as to protect the principal. No scholarships can be granted from it, for by the law of the church it is a revolving loan fund and its success depends on the promptness with which the borrowers repay the money and allow it to be put into circulation again.

Educational Institutions for Negroes

The service rendered by the Methodist Episcopal Church in the program of Christian education for Negro youth, exceedingly important for American life, grows in significance. The institutions for Negroes sponsored by the Board of Education enrolled last year 513 in professional schools, 4,151 in college classes and secondary schools, and 487 in special courses and practice schools, a total of 5,151, whose educational opportunity was found in schools sponsored by the Board. These students were enrolled in fifteen institutions situated in ten different Southern States: Nine colleges, two junior colleges, one secondary school, a hospital and nurse training school, a medical college, and a theological seminary. This array of educational institutions of secondary and higher type constitutes an agency for Christian education for Negroes with an opportunity unequalled by any other single agency in the nation. It is the present outcome of a movement which in 1867 reported twenty-six elementary schools with fifty-two teachers, and in 1868 reported fifty-nine schools with seventy-nine teachers.

The Board of Education has certain well-defined purposes in maintaining these institutions. It is concerned particularly with developing men and women who have the Christian philosophy of life, and who are prepared to be leaders of their people in professional and other fields. In particular, the work sponsored by the Board supplements that carried forward in the various State-supported institutions.

Training for the ministry is provided at Gammon Theological Seminary and in the Pre-Theological courses offered in each of the colleges. Graduates and former students of Gammon have gone into the service of the church in various capacities as indicated in the following figures:

6 Bishops
131 District Superintendents and Presiding Elders
749 Pastors (graduates)
805 Pastors (non-graduates)
13 Secretaries and General Church Officers
13 College Presidents
14 College Professors
9 Missionaries
3 Bible Society Secretaries
2 Editors of Church Periodicals

Training in the various medical branches is provided in the Pre-Medic work at the colleges, and in professional training at two other institutions:

Epworth-Euclid Methodist Episcopal Church
Cleveland, Ohio

Meharry Medical College at Nashville, Tenn., has graduates from four departments, as follows:

Medicine	2,865
Dentistry	923
Pharmacy	493
Nurse Training	146
Total	4,427

Flint-Goodridge Hospital and Nurse Training School, in New Orleans, is the one institution for the training of Negro nurses in a very large area.

The training of public-school teachers is an important part of the work of all our colleges, and has meant the equipping of approximately 20,000 young people for this field. Even so, the supply of well-trained teachers responsible for the education of five million Negro youth is still pitifully inadequate.

A fourth fact should be recorded, though it is not reducible to figures. There are hundreds of Negro churches whose lay leaders are able and forward-looking because of the training received in Methodist secondary schools and colleges.

Co-operation With the Woman's Home Missionary Society

Youth needs the guiding hand of two parents. It is more than a figure of speech to say that the Board of Education and the Woman's Home Missionary Society working together can do more for the wholesome training of young men and women for life than they can working separately.

Bennett College for Women, at Greensboro, N. C., has conferred degrees upon its first graduating class, and at the same time has gained Class A rating with the North Carolina State Department of Public Instruction as qualified to train high-school teachers. The Board of Education and the Woman's Home Missionary Society are jointly and equally responsible in sponsoring Bennett College for Women.

At five institutions the Woman's Home Missionary Society maintains dormitories for girls and conducts work in Home Economics. At three of these institutions the Society has now taken over the operation of all the dormitory accommodations for girls and supervision of the dining halls for all students. This is proving a distinct aid to the general social relationships of the campus.

The Merger at New Orleans

Four years ago the Board of Education approved the report of its Committee on Survey of Negro Schools, which recommended that "efforts should be made, perhaps through the General Education Board, to unite New Orleans College and Straight College as one strong, well-equipped Protestant college, in a different location from that either now occupies." In view of a similar interest on the part of the American Missionary Association which maintains Straight College the question of the merger of the interests in New Orleans of the two Church Boards was seriously taken up. After the most careful study and after extended consideration, the consolidation of New Orleans University, including Gilbert Academy and Flint-Goodridge Hospital and Nurse Training School, both sponsored by the Board of Education, with Straight College has been formally agreed to. These institutions will be merged into a new corporation known as Dillard University, which was legally established on June 6, 1930. A trustee board of seventeen has been created, six of whom were chosen by the Board of Education, six chosen by the American Missionary Association, and five chosen by the first twelve. This major piece of co-operation between two denominations had the immediate result of bringing the consolidation to the favorable attention of the New Orleans public, who promptly subscribed a quarter of a million dollars for the Flint-Goodridge Hospital unit, and of the educational Foundations, who subscribed three quarters of a million to the entire project. It will have the further result of providing a much stronger educational program for the Negro youth of that region than would have been possible otherwise.

Better Schools for Negroes

Unprecedented liberality has been manifest by conditional gifts amounting to nearly three million dollars from certain educational Foundations, notably the General Education Board and the Julius Rosenwald Fund, in the case of a number of schools for Negroes sponsored by the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church. These conditional gifts involve the raising of other funds, chiefly from church sources, by the institutions to be benefited. The total of additional amounts required will approximate two million dollars. All these funds are to be used for improving the facilities of the various institutions. A major part will be spent for buildings and equipment. Other amounts will be invested in endowment. The various institutions involved are organizing campaigns for securing these additional sums. In order that these institutions may have direction and guidance in their several campaigns, the Board of Education has appointed a Central Committee on Better Schools for Negroes, of which Bishop Thomas Nicholson is Chairman. The Board of Education has agreed to supervise the activities of the various schools in receiving pledges and to be responsible for the investment of funds collected.

The Slater Fund, of which Dr. J. H. Dillard is President, is making appropriations to aid on the salary of a teacher of Science or English in each of nine of the colleges, totaling $13,050 for the current year. This aid results specifically in enabling these institutions to hold better-trained teachers in their positions and to improve in other ways the effectiveness of the instruction offered.

DIVISION OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATION IN THE LOCAL CHURCH

The Division of Religious Education in the Local Church is responsible for those phases of religious education which are carried out in and through the local church. Its jurisdiction covers work in Church Schools, Epworth Leagues, Week-Day and Daily Vacation Church Schools and through training agencies for all of these and is also responsible for the promotion of such programs as those carried on by Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, etc. The Division is distinctly a service agency, over 90 per cent of its total income going in service to the field, either in direct appropriations or through the services of its office and field staff, every item of whose work is done either immediately or ultimately for the local church.

A Program for All Ages

The Division of Religious Education in the Local Church formulates and promotes a program of religious instruction and training for all ages. It determines principles, standards and methods, co-operates with the Curriculum Committee of the Board, with the Lessons Committee of the International Council of Religious Education and with The Methodist Book Concern in the production of our vast volume and variety of periodical and lesson literature; it determines programs for the different ages on the basis of scientifically discovered needs; it promotes a program of training for the teachers and leaders of all groups. This program is conducted under several phases:

(1) The development and training of leadership among young people themselves in summer camps, institutes, and schools of methods. Last year 160 summer and approximately 200 winter institutes were held in which approximately 50,000 young people received definite elements of training for their own work.

(2) The training of mature leadership for children, young people, and adults in correspondence courses, local church-training classes, and Standard Training Schools. In these courses both active and prospective workers were enrolled. Last year 27,275 persons were enrolled in such courses, earning a total of 21,738 standard units of credit. The files of the Department of Leadership Training contain the records of 103,000 persons who have completed one or more units of credit toward the Standard Leadership Training diploma.

(3) Seminars for Pastors, Directors of Religious Education, District Superintendents and other leaders. Four such seminars were held last year with an enrollment of 103, among them 72 pastors, 12 district superintendents, and one bishop. Five seminars for specialization groups brought the total registration up to 151. Though this work is just in its beginnings, the time available for such work is scheduled for nearly two years ahead.

Religious Education of Children

In the Religious Education of Children, programs are formulated for all ages up to twelve years, covering the following phases of work: Cradle Roll, Nursery, Kindergarten, Primary and Junior. This work is conducted through Sunday Church Schools, Week-Day and Vacation Church Schools, and Junior Epworth Leagues, and the total program is closely correlated with that of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies for these ages. Experimental schools are maintained and supervised where programs and materials are thoroughly tested out before being officially adopted and recommended to the churches in the field.

Religious Education of Young People

The program of Religious Education of Young People is carried on through Church Schools and Epworth Leagues. The young people themselves have a large share in shaping their own program, the principle of democratic self-determination being recognized as basic. Many of the lesson courses are the direct outgrowth of the needs of young people discovered in conferences with them, the problems dealt with having been indicated by the young people themselves.

Religious Education of Adults

Adult education is receiving a larger emphasis in the church as well as in our communities at large. All adults need continuous and enlarging education which keeps pace with the growing experience and thinking of the world, many need a re-education and a correction of wrongly developed religious ideas and some need to have their religious ideas built up from the beginning. The Department of Religious Education of Adults is working in close co-operation with all agencies promoting adult education, adapting the general principles and experience to the particular needs and problems in the religious field.

Special Work for Men

A special work for men is being carried on under the Commission on Men's Work, having as its particular objective the enlistment and organization of men in the local church in the carrying out there of the total program of the denomination at large. The Commission is working in close co-operation with the Department of Religious Education of Adults and is active in promoting all the work of the Division with men in local churches.

Conference Supervision of Religious Education

The most effective means yet found for field promotion of religious education is through Annual Conference supervision under a Conference Director of Religious Education working under the joint responsibility of the Board of Education and the Annual Conference Board. In a very few instances an entire Episcopal Area is the unit of supervision. The full value of the work of these directors is best seen in those Conferences where they have been at work for a period of years and where cumulative results can be studied.

Budgets for the Annual Conference Boards vary from $5,000 to $15,000. These budgets are made up largely from the Rally Day offerings from the Conferences thus organized, these offerings being supplemented by other funds raised locally and by subsidies from the general funds of the Board of Education.

There are now thirty Directors of Religious Education working in the United States under the direction of the Division of Religious Education in the Local Church. Their fields of responsibility stretch all the way from Maine to California. (See list of Conferences and names of Directors in the Directory section.)

Religious Education in Foreign Fields

A similar work is being carried on in foreign fields through the Joint Committee on Religious Education in Foreign Fields, the Division of Religious Education in co-operation with the Board of Foreign Missions and the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. When it is remembered that we are now carrying on work in five great republics of South America, the Philippine Islands, China, Korea and Japan, the immensity of this overseas task will easily be seen. And when we multiply this geographical responsibility by the fact that, in many of these fields, the problem of literature involves not only the translation of existing materials, but the creation of an entirely indigenous literature, the responsibility becomes simply staggering from the standpoint of both financial and human resources.

The Joint Committee carries on its work through missionaries specially trained and sent abroad, and also through nationals, some of whom have received training in the United States. (See Directory section for list of fields and the fifteen supervisors.) All of these persons are giving their entire time to the distinctive phases of religious education. Associated with them are forty-one nationals who are engaged in either whole or part time service.

Missionary Education

Fundamental to every other objective of religious education is the creation of a missionary-minded church. Obviously this can be done only by educating the oncoming to the full implications of world unity involved in the teachings of Jesus, and by definite guidance in the practice of those principles. Much of such teaching is implicit in the Closely Graded Lessons, but to augment their missionary emphasis and for the help of those schools that do not use the Closely Graded Lessons, a supplementary program of missionary education is provided through the Department of Missionary Education of the World Service agencies, a co-operative enterprise to which all of the constituent Boards are vitally related. An especial obligation of the Department of Missionary Education is to see that, so far as possible, a definite program of missionary instruction and participation is carried out in all organizations in the local church which are charged with an educational responsibility.

Scientific Research Into Educational Problems

This rapidly expanding program of religious education has called for the development of scientific methods of investigation and research into the interests and needs of different groups and for a discovery of the means by which these may be met. The Division is carrying on this work through its Bureau of Research, but with the co-operation of the entire staff and of a large number of workers in the field. It is not too much to say that the Division thus occupies a position of leadership in the field of research and is not only pointing the way for the development of our own denominational program, but is also making important contributions to the total program of religious education as carried out by all churches.

Week-Day and Vacation Church Schools

Recognizing that education is continuous with the total experience of living, it is obvious that an adequate religious education cannot be carried out in a brief period on Sunday nor is a life likely to receive sufficient religious motivation in periods of that length and at intervals so infrequent. Consequently, there has been a growing demand for a larger proportion of time to be given to religious education and for a more continuous program. This need has been met in two ways: (1) By the rapid growth, popularity, and effectiveness of Vacation Church Schools, and (2) by Week-Day Church Schools conducted during the school year. From the very outset the Methodist Episcopal Church has been a leader in these advanced educational movements, having actually created the first materials for Week-Day Church Schools. In 1929 our churches reported 2,953 Vacation Schools, 773 Methodist Week-Day Schools, and 892 Co-operative Week-Day Schools participated in by Methodist churches. All of these schools of both types were in the United States, report for the foreign field not being available.

Promotion and Publicity

It is important not only to develop adequate program and materials for religious education, but to promote popular interest in the subject and to bring about more general participation in the actual work of religious education. This involves the promotion of Rally Week and Rally Day, the reaching of our constituencies through Church School publications, Church Advocates, World Service News, the secular press, and through all the avenues of printed access to the field; through direct mail circularization and through the carrying on of special approaches calculated to awaken new interest in religious education.

Special Sources of Income

So far have the needs of the program of religious education outrun the financial resources for its support that subsidiary means of income have had to be developed. This has been done in the case of Church School work since 1900, through the Rally Day offering. $85,971 was realized last year through this source, $57,042 being returned directly to Annual Conferences for financing their program of religious education.

For the support of Epworth League work, an additional income has been developed through the Twenty-Four-Hour-Day plan of giving. The receipts from this source for 1928-1929 amounted to $38,206.

The Bureau of Architecture

The rapid developments in the program of religious education have resulted in rendering obsolete many of the church buildings which were thought adequate for an earlier day. A dozen or more years ago our Board recognized the need of a building program which would keep pace with the new educational program and which would also be a factor in its further development. Consequently, in co-operation with the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, the Bureau of Architecture was organized.

The Bureau aids churches to remodel inadequate plants in such a way as to make them suitable for a modern program of religious education and advises Official Boards contemplating new structures concerning the modern program and its involvements in terms of plant and equipment. Under certain special condictions the Bureau prepares complete plans and specifications and supervises construction.

Offices for the Bureau are maintained at 1701 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa., and at 740 Rush St., Chicago, Ill. In the twelve years of its existence it has aided hundreds of churches all over the country, rendering incalculable service to the development of religious education and saving to the denomination millions of dollars which otherwise would have been wasted on buildings inadequate from the day of their dedication. Most of the service of the Bureau is rendered free to the churches.

Co-operation in Religious Education

The work of religious education is so large and diversified a task that it becomes the responsibility in some measure of almost every organization within the church. Some phases of the total task are carried on in colleges, universities, theological schools and training schools for religious workers, some through the agency of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, some through the Board of Foreign Missions, some under supervision of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Societies, some through the Department of Missionary Education (of the World Service Commission), and some through local church, district and Annual Conference supervision.

With all of these agencies the Division of Religious Education heartily and sympathetically co-operates, thereby greatly enlarging the sphere of its own usefulness and at the same time effecting considerable financial and administrative economies. Notable instances of our co-operation are with the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension in the Bureau of Architecture, and in larger Parish projects with the Board of Foreign Missions and the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society through the Joint Committee on Religious Education in Foreign Fields, with the World Service Commission through its Department of Missionary Education, with the International Council of Religious Education in all phases of its work (especially with its Educational Commission and its Department of Leadership Training), with the Editors of Church School and Epworth League publications and their staffs, and with The Methodist Book Concern in the production and circulation of lesson and periodical literature and of books on religious education.

While much religious educational work is thus carried on by other agencies of the church, all of them look to the Division of Religious Education for leadership and direction, for principles, methods, standards, materials and programs. The functions of the Division are thus materially extended beyond mere jurisdiction over Church School and Epworth League work in local churches and extend through denominational and interdenominational agencies throughout the entire world.

A Correlated Program of Work

Since the education experiences of the pupil should be a unit, it is recognized that the programs for the different age groups should be worked out in terms of the unity of their needs rather than in terms of the multiplicity of organizations that have heretofore been endeavoring to make an educational contribution to them. This means that the present program is worked out on the principle of correlation and having the needs of the pupils in view rather than the interests of organizations. Following this principle, correlated programs for all ages have been developed which at the same time conserve and utilize all the values inhering in any organizations which may be within the local church.

Evangelism as the Goal

The Division of Religious Education in the Local Church recognizes evangelism as both the motive and the goal in all its work. Character adjustments, rather than mere instruction, are the aim. The teaching process is not regarded as complete until right knowledge has resulted in right attitudes which have expressed themselves in right actions and in Christian habits of thinking and conduct. Nor is it expected that any of these things can be fully and finally accomplished without making the decision for Christ the central motivation in every life. Right attitudes and right conduct are not permanently assured until they have become fixed through such a comprehensive and inclusive choice.

It is in the light of such principles that all of our organization materials and methods are tested and judged. Likewise, the effectiveness and acceptability of workers is to be determined not so much by the nature and extent of their technical training as by their skill in bringing their pupils to the goal of religious education in the achievement of Christian attitudes, choices, and allegiances. That education has justified itself as a method of bringing people into religious experiences is amply attested by the scores of thousands of our Methodist Episcopal church-school pupils every year brought into a conscious Christian experience and into the fellowship and activities of the church.

BOARD OF FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

150 Fifth Ave., New York

The Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church is chartered under the laws of the State of New York, and by authority of the General Conference of the Church. According to its constitution:

"Its objects are religious, philanthropic, and educational, designed to diffuse more generally the blessings of Christianity, by the promotion and support of all phases of church work and missionary activity in foreign countries."

The following statement, further defining the Board's aim, was adopted by the General Conference on May 14, 1928:

"The supreme and controlling aim of Foreign Missions is to make the Lord Jesus Christ known to all men as their divine Saviour, to persuade them to become His disciples, and to gather these disciples into Christian churches which shall be, under God, self-propagating, self-supporting and self-governing; to co-operate so long as necessary with these churches in the evangelization of their respective countries, and to bring to bear on all human life the spirit and principles of Christ."

The first foreign missionary sent out by the Methodist Episcopal Church was the Rev. Melville B. Cox, of Virginia, who went to Liberia in 1833. In the almost 100 years since that time the missionary activity of the Church has extended to other parts of central and north Africa, to India, Japan, China, Korea, Malaya, Sumatra, the Philippines, Mexico, South America, and to a number of European countries.

Constituency Overseas Numbers 893,881

There are today 893,881 persons on the constituency roll of the Methodist Episcopal Church in foreign mission fields, including 675,116 members of the Church and 218,765 baptized children under instruction for membership.

The largest constituency of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Asia is in India. There 517,870 persons are on the roll. They are largely from the outcaste and low caste groups of Hindu society, the most needy peoples in all India, although in recent years missionaries and national pastors are reaching increasingly larger numbers of the high castes, the Mohammedans, and the educated classes.

The China constituency numbers 83,421, many of them being among the most influential leaders of government, agriculture, business, and the professions. The roll in Korea is 19,454. The Japan Methodist Church, an independent self-governing church in the development of which we are co-operating, reports 33,819 members. The Philippine Islands report a constituency of 54,167; and the Malay Peninsula and the island of Sumatra, an additional 12,373.

The Methodist Episcopal churches which have been established in Europe report a total constituency of 118,387 persons. These churches are to be found scattered throughout the continent: Austria, Bulgaria, Esthonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Denmark, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Russia, France, Italy, Spain, Jugo-Slavia, Germany, Hungary, Switzerland. In that part of north Africa controlled by France—Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia and Tripoli—and in Madeira, the Church has an additional 800 constituency.

The religious, educational, medical, social welfare and agricultural work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in these lands was carried on at the close of 1930 by 812 missionaries of the Board of Foreign Missions and by national pastors, nurses, doctors, teachers and other workers and institutions. First Methodist Episcopal Church serving in the churches overseas 3,254 nationals who are ordained preachers, and 2,596 nationals who are unordained preachers and exhorters. These include 1,171 Chinese pastors, 2,273 Indian pastors, and 767 African pastors.

There are in all fields 8,639 Sunday schools, enrolling 406,272 pupils. The congregations own 3,463 church buildings, and hold thousands of other services in rented buildings or in homes, as well as in the open air. The chapters of the Epworth League enroll 66,984 young people.

The educational work carried on by the Methodist Episcopal Church overseas includes schools of all grades from kindergarten to college, also agricultural schools, industrial schools, theological seminaries, nurse and teacher-training schools, Bible women's schools, orphanages, medical schools, etc. In all the Church maintains, through the Board, 1,896 schools, with 258 missionary and 4,348 national teachers, and 94,402 pupils.

A Gradual Reduction of Service

Beside this record of the present-day service of the Church, through the Board of Foreign Missions, overseas, must be written another chapter. During the past seven or eight years there has been a gradual but drastic reduction in the funds received by the Board from the Church for this missionary enterprise. And this reduction of funds has made necessary a reduction in the work that could be carried on.

The number of missionaries maintained overseas by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church has decreased by 38 per cent during the past seven years. In 1923 there were 1,209 men and women in service. On December 1, 1930, the number was 812. Early in 1931 between fifty and sixty more missionaries will be retired or dropped from the roll.

The need for Christian service is as great as ever before; but the Methodist Episcopal Church has reduced its giving by about 38 per cent in seven years, and work on the field has been necessarily reduced about that amount.

It is true that the Board has made effort to "consolidate its lines," to withdraw from some weaker places, to give work over to other Christian bodies in some places. But surrounding these very transferred centers are millions of men and women who have not heard of Christ and his Way of Life from any Christian of any denomination. It is true that in 1924 there were 2,055 ordained national pastors, members of Annual Conferences overseas, serving churches in Asia, Africa, Latin-America, and Europe; while today there are 2,180. But the number of ordained local preachers appointed to pastorates has decreased from 1,027 to 874 since 1922; and the number of unordained local preachers and exhorters serving as pastors has decreased from 3,731 to 2,596 since 1924. Thus there is a total loss of 1,153 pastors, and a probable loss of 10 per cent to 15 per cent more because of the further decreased moneys available for 1931.

The seriousness of this decrease, of course, is in the loss of the work of carrying forward the Kingdom which these men have been doing. And the loss seems to strike especially hard upon the children of the world. In 1923 the Methodist Episcopal Church maintained overseas 11,095 Sunday schools with 543,720 pupils; today this number has decreased to 8,639 and 406,272 pupils, with the prospect of further reductions in 1931.

In 1922 there were 66,000 baptisms. In 1929 the number of persons it was possible for the lessened forces to baptize and instruct was only 40,000. In 1922 the number of accessions to the Church overseas was 61,576 above all loses; in 1929 the accessions, above losses, were 4,778 —largely because of lack of workers to instruct, and lack of young people coming from the Sunday schools.

There were in the service of the Church in 1923, 63 missionary physicians and 74 missionary nurses; today the medical staff has decreased to 40 physicians and 46 nurses. This has meant the closing of a number of clinics and dispensaries, and means the understaffing of practically every hospital maintained by the Church. It is estimated that the number of patients treated yearly has decreased by about 20 per cent.

In 1923 the Board of Foreign Missions maintained overseas 2,783 schools, 2,606 of which were of elementary grades. In 1930 the number of schools was 1,748. Almost one thousand elementary schools and some two score higher schools were closed because of lack of funds. The total number of teachers (missionary and national) was reduced from 5,659 to 4,370; and the number of pupils from 111,165 to 90,080.

The Situation in 1931

At its annual meeting in New York City, Nov. 20 to 22, 1930, the Board appropriated the sum of $2,234,987 for the year 1931—a decrease of about $300,000 from the amount of income the year before. The appropriations follow:

Direct Appropriations to:
Eastern Asia	$463,231
Southeastern Asia	83,651
Southern Asia	348,422
Central and South Africa	106,041
Latin America	190,941
Europe and North Africa	210,493
Interest	44,000
Deficit	218,154
General Administration	142,792
Education and Promotion	63,793
Share of Co-operative Staff Expenses	150,000
Indirect Appropriations	187,427
Field Projects Fund	18,842
Designated Gift Adjustment Fund	7,200
	$2,234,987

This decrease in funds for 1931 necessitated considerable change and adjustment of Methodism's enterprise in Asia, in Europe, in Africa, in Latin-America; but, as the Board said, it means also a "fresh evaluation of certain fields and types of work, and the creation of a missionary program which will meet modern conditions, and around which the Church can rally enthusiastically." Some consolidations, transfers and withdrawals had been contemplated even before this reduction of work became imperative.

Some of the actions of the Board at its 1930 meeting worthy of special note are:

The Board approved plans already under way in India for the development of an educational and evangelistic center in the city of Karachi, Indus River Conference—a city which is now the fastest-growing in India and is in the center of an agricultural and industrial development which will make it one of the most important centers of Asiatic and European trade, drawing many thousands of Indians from all parts of the land. The Board approved the plans, but urged that it be developed on a self-supporting basis from the beginning.

Approval was given to the arrangement which has been under way now for more than a year whereby the Rev. Boyd Tucker, a Methodist missionary, is detailed at the university conducted by Rabindranath Tagore, for religious instruction and instruction in English.

It was recommended that efforts be renewed to form an interdenominational board of evangelical work in Spain. Meanwhile the work in Alicante is to be strengthened, and an effort will be made to find a good leader for the school in Seville, and also to find suitable housing conditions for the institution. Failing this, it was voted to then withdraw from Seville and center on the work in Alicante.

The work among Moslems in North Africa has been greatly weakened in recent years by falling income, so that it may be necessary to decrease the number of missionaries in that field and also reduce the number of centers of work. It was left to the secretaries of the Board and to Bishop Shepard to study this situation and to take such steps in the matter of reduction and concentration as may be found necessary.

The Board votes to adhere to the plan agreed upon in 1928 for a gradual reduction of the appropriations to the Northeast, Northwest, South and Southwest Germany Conferences, looking toward their coming into complete self-support. Appropriations were made this year with this agreement in view.

The officers of the Board will take up with the Central Conference of Central Europe the proposal to transfer to them the whole responsibility for the mission work in Austria and Hungary, with the understanding that the Board will do its best to maintain these appropriations but that it is unable to undertake at the present time further strengthening or developing the work in these fields.

With regard to the mission work maintained by the Church in Jugo-Slavia, it was voted to ask the Switzerland Conference, which has now reached self-support, to take this work under its care as its missionary project. Here also the Board will maintain appropriations for a reasonable period.

It was voted to continue an appropriation to the work in Bulgaria with the understanding that the movement for the union of Methodist and Congregational churches in Bulgaria be encouraged, and if possible be brought to a definite conclusion within five years.

Sweden, Norway and Denmark churches are to be encouraged to become self-supporting. There will be a gradual reduction of appropriations to these lands, so that the churches in Sweden will become self-supporting in six years; those in Norway in seven years; and those in Denmark in eight years.

Because Fukien Province, China, has been bandit-ridden and communist-ridden for years, thus hampering missionary work, because there is an absence of medical help for missionaries, and because the language of the South Fukien Conference territory is Amoy—which is not understood in other Chinese fields where Methodists are at work—it was decided that this was the section of China from which to withdraw missionaries.

It is likely that in the near future the Methodist Episcopal Church may withdraw from its work in Burma. It was voted to open negotiations with the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, the Central Conference of Southern Asia, and with the missionaries and churches in Burma regarding the wisdom and the possibility of uniting the Methodist work in Burma with that of the Baptist Church. The Baptists have been in this field for more than a century and have strong churches and institutions.

A shift in the field of work in the South India Conference was also recommended. As soon as possible the appropriations now going for certain Tamil-speaking groups in South India will be transferred to the strengthening of the Kanarese-speaking churches and schools in the same Conference.

Approval was given to the proposal to turn over the Methodist Memorial at Chateau-Thierry, France, to the French municipality at the close of the present year, with the understanding that it will continue the social work of the institution and also continue the Memorial on some satisfactory basis.

It was voted also that within two years the appropriations for work in France be discontinued—meanwhile providing smaller appropriations to meet obligations at Charvieu and Poissy. It is hoped that arrangements will be made with other evangelical bodies in France to undertake the evangelistic and pastoral work now carried on there by the Methodist Episcopal Church.

The churches of Italy, too, will be asked to become self-supporting, with the provision that the Board will continue a partial support—probably gradually decreasing—for a period not to exceed twenty years.

Bishop Edwin F. Lee presented to the Board a comprehensive ten-year missionary program for the Philippine Islands, a program representing the desires of the entire missionary group there. This program called for a staff of nine missionary families always on the field; a missionary and "work" appropriation of about $50,000 annually; $20,000 annually to assist the Filipino church to properly house itself; an endowment of about $1,000,000 to place the Union Theological Seminary in Manila on a substantial basis; and the carrying on of the present program of the W. F. M. S. At the end of this period, Bishop Lee believes, Methodism can leave the Philippine Islands with a vigorous young Church of perhaps 100,000 members. The Board asked the Corresponding Secretaries to make definite recommendations regarding this proposal to the next annual meeting of the Board.

The Corresponding Secretaries were authorized also to negotiate with the Methodist Church of Mexico with reference to the taking over by that Church of the Methodist missionary work in Costa Rica; and with the Committee on Religious Work in the Canal Zone regarding a movement to take over the Methodist work in Panama. If these negotiations are successful, the Methodist Episcopal Church will withdraw from its work in Central America.

The Board authorized a special appeal to the Church in the United States for funds to save the Central Church in Helsingfors, Finland, and six churches bound to it by mortgaging their properties for its benefit, from threatening disaster due to Finland's bad economic situation and the lessening of American funds available for such an enterprise. A special committee, headed by Bishop Wade, is to seek this money.

Earthquake, Fire, Typhoon, Warfare

During the summer of 1930 an unusual number of emergencies, caused by nature or by warfare, occurred in several of the fields in which the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church maintains work. From these fields came appeals for immediate special relief.

The earthquake which shook Burma in the early summer did damage to the extent of about $10,000 to property of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Fortunately no lives were lost; but the High School in Rangoon, the Rangoon Church, the Chinese School in Pegu, the Burmese Church in Pegu, the School in Thongwa, and other properties were seriously damaged by the upheaval.

The famous Boys' Middle School in Hirosaki, Japan, was practically wiped out by fire. The destruction of the main building leaves 600 boys without classrooms. Work will be carried on in the outlying laboratory, chapel and gymnasium buildings until funds can be secured for a new structure.

After the Hirosaki fire word was received that the Chinzei Gakuin, Methodism's school for boys at Nagasaki, was in the midst of the worst typhoon experienced in years in Japan. The gymnasium, which had been removed from the old school site and repainted, was totally destroyed. The new four-story reenforced concrete building was not irreparably damaged but lost completely the big sky-light from the roof. Emergency grants of $8,750 to rebuild the destroyed gymnasium and $800 to replace the school sky-light were requested.

Methodist property at Akunoura also was damaged, and it is estimated that at least $250 will be required for the repairs.

A cable was received by the Board of Foreign Missions indicating that upon Consular instructions all foreigners were ordered to leave the Province of Kiangsi. Seven missionary families proceeded to Shanghai, where it has been necessary to provide accommodations for them. The cable asked a grant of $2,000 for travel and for rent for the last six months of 1930. Their immediate return to their stations is considered impracticable.

For many months Shantung Province was the scene of fighting. Word has been received that hostilities are at an end, that missionaries have returned to their stations. It is estimated that the damage is about $2,500.

In the recent earthquake in Italy the Methodist Episcopal Church in Naples was quite seriously damaged. To restore the church building so that it may be used by this congregation will necessitate an expenditure of about $2,600.

THE FUTURE OF FOREIGN MISSIONS

What a Group of Methodist Laymen Think About Foreign Missions

"What is the present-day aim of foreign missions?
"What is being accomplished by foreign missions?
"Are the current criticisms of foreign missions valid and how can they be met?
"What adjustments in foreign missions policy are needed to meet the new conditions?
"How can the new generation be integrated with the older friends of foreign missions?"

To discuss these and related topics concerning the world mission of Christianity, thirty laymen of the denomination met at Niagara Falls, N. Y., on June 20–22, 1930. It was an unofficial, voluntary gathering of laymen, freely and frankly to exchange opinions regarding the future of the missionary enterprise. Their conclusions were formulated in the appended statement, unanimously adopted and signed at the close of three days of discussion.

Mr. Frank A. Horne, President of the Merchants' Refrigerating Company, and Vice-President of the Board of Foreign Missions, presided. In addition to Mr. Horne, those who presented papers and answered questions were:

Prof. William Hung, a Chinese layman, on the faculty of Yenching University, Peiping, China, and exchange Professor at Harvard University; William Boyd of Philadelphia; Edward M. McBrier of Montclair, N. J.; Senator James E. McMurray of Chicago; Robert E. Brown, M.D., of Wuhu, China; George A. Roberts, agriculturist and evangelist, of Old Umtali, Africa; George P. Howard, evangelist, of Argentina; T. T. Brumbaugh, evangelist to students, Sapporo, Japan; Prof. Oscar M. Buck of Madison, N. J.; Prof. W. D. Schermerhorn of Evanston, Ill.; Bishop James C. Baker of Korea; Bishop Edwin F. Lee of Singapore and Manila; and Bishop Herbert Welch of Pittsburgh. Bishop F. J. McConnell, of New York, delivered the closing message. Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer, corresponding secretary, and his associates on the Board of Foreign Missions were present throughout the conference. The group was fortunate also in having the help in its discussions of Dr. John R. Mott, Methodism's most distinguished layman.

An abridgment of the findings of the laymen, addressed to laymen throughout the Church, follows:

"We have recently spent the week-end at Niagara Falls in unhurried review of the world-wide Christian movement.

"We have been profoundly impressed and reassured as we have considered:

"(1) The wide-openness of the doors of opportunity in all parts of the non-Christian world.

"(2) The responsiveness and fruitfulness manifested in the service of our missions and of the related indigenous churches.

"(3) The imperative need of expanding our ministry.

"To this end we feel the need of augmenting greatly the Christian forces, both missionaries and nationals, and above all, the necessity of rethinking, restating and, in many cases, revising our programs and policies in order to meet the enlarged, urgent and critical world situation, and to press the present advantage.

"We are convinced that one of the greatest demands of the present hour is that of liberating a greater lay force to meet the opportunities of the world mission of the Christian faith. We are especially concerned that the younger generation, both of professional and of business men, shall come to understand, appreciate and support new ventures in Christian living that have world-wide significance.

"This is indispensable because the movement must have the help of laymen of insight, experience, contacts and influence. Further, it is essential in order to develop a more dependable, economic base to meet the inevitably enlarging requirements of the world-wide Christian enterprise.

"Moreover, the laymen as well as the ministers must recognize and accept responsibility to insure that non-Christian conditions and practices which so largely obtain in the United States be transformed by the principles and spirit of Jesus Christ.

"Among the important problems on the mission field is that of giving larger effect to the actions of the Board of Foreign Missions based upon the findings of its Commission of Ten, as well as to the deliverances of the Jerusalem Conference and of recent meetings of the National Christian Councils of the non-Christian world. Among these findings which call for prompt attention and conclusive thinking are the following:

"(1) Courageous overhauling of our existing plans and work with special reference to furthering the policy of increased initiative and responsibility on the part of indigenous churches.

"(2) Recognition of the challenge presented by such significant spiritual movements as the following:

"(a) The Kingdom of God Movement in Japan, which aims at increasing within the next three years the present Protestant communicant membership of a quarter of a million to one million.

"(b) The Five Year Movement in China initiated by the Chinese Christians themselves, which has for its aim, not only the quickening and enriching of the churches themselves, but also the doubling of the Protestant church membership in China.

"(c) The Mass Movement of India which has already yielded 73 per cent of the nearly two million Protestant church members in India.

"(3) Recognition of the great need of an effort throughout our churches for increased international understanding so that the points of view of other peoples, both at home and abroad, may be interpreted and fellowship may be encouraged.

"(4) Realization of the world-wide trend toward a larger measure of co-operation and unity among Christian communions. We affirm our judgment that the Methodist Episcopal Church, through its various agencies and administrators, should heartily participate in movements looking to closer co-operation and affiliation with other denominations and to the establishment of united churches of Christ in the several fields as divine leadership may indicate. Such object lessons will surely become contagious."

The above statement was unanimously signed by the laymen present as follows:

THE BOARD OF HOME MISSIONS AND CHURCH EXTENSION

Historical

1. The Work Begins.

In 1812 the General Conference authorized the raising of money for missionary purposes.

April 5, 1819, at a public meeting held in Bowery Church, New York, the following was adopted:

"Resolved: that it is expedient for this meeting to form a 'Missionary and Bible Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church.'"

In 1820 the first missionary of the new Society, the Rev. Ebenezer Brown, was sent to labor among the French in Louisiana. When this first missionary died in 1889, the annual receipts of the Society had grown to a million dollars.

The first year of the new Society was very discouraging. Board members resigned and others refused to attend the Board meetings. At one meeting, when only a few were present and the outlook was gloomy, the Rev. Joshua Soule said: "The time will come when every man who assisted in the organization of this Society and persevered in the undertaking will consider it one of the most honorable periods of his life."

The General Conference, which met in 1820 at Baltimore, formally approved the new Society and declared: "Methodism itself is a missionary system. Yield the missionary spirit and you will yield the very life blood of the cause."

In the first constitution the Society was called "The Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in America." "In America" was eliminated in 1828 to permit a future work overseas, although at that time the revised charter declared that the society was "for the express purpose of enabling several annual conferences more effectually to extend their missionary labors throughout the United States and elsewhere, and also to assist in the support and promotion of missionary schools." The General Conference of 1840 added "in our own and in foreign countries."

Until 1907 the Missionary Society had jurisdiction over all the missionary work at home and abroad. As settlements pushed westward, frontier outposts of missionary endeavor were established, and these outposts were spoken of as "foreign missions." In 1907 the work of "home missions" was separated from that of "foreign missions."

During all the history of the Missionary Society "home missions" consisted chiefly of what is now called "maintenance," that is, the full or partial support of missionaries or ministers in what is known as missionary territory.

2. Church Extension.

Technically, the planting of new churches is called "church extension." As an organized work it originated in Iowa. In 1856 Dr. Alpha Jefferson Kynett organized a local "Church Extension Society" at Dubuque. With his fellow ministers he collected money and helped many frontier preachers to secure houses of worship.

In 1864 the work of church extension was organized on a national basis as the Church Extension Society, the purpose of the new Society being to aid in the building of churches and parsonages. The work of home missions remained with the Missionary Society.

When the Church Extension Society was organized, Methodism had 6,800 traveling preachers, 928,000 members, with 10,000 churches worth $24,000,000 and 2,900 parsonages worth $3,000,000. Within ten years the Church Extension Society collected $3,000,000, of which $555,000 became a permanent fund to aid churches by loans. Of this sum $425,000 had been returned and reloaned to other churches. During this time 5,805 churches had been helped, the number of preachers had increased to 12,000 and the membership to 2,000,000.

3. The Board of Home Missions and Church Extension Organized.

The General Conference of 1900 provided a commission to "consider the question of the benevolent societies of the church, and make a plan for consolidation, if it be found practicable." The report of this commission led to the formation of the present Board of Home Missions and Church Extension. The directions given for the consolidation were as follows:

"To the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension shall be committed all the mission work of the church in the United States and such other mission work, in countries under the jurisdiction of the United States, as may be assigned to it by the General Conference, and all the work of the present Board of Church Extension."

Organization and Functions of the Board

The task of the new Board of Home Missions and Church Extension as set for it by the General Conference in 1916 is as follows:

"Its purpose shall be to prosecute missionary work in accordance with the terms of its charter, in the United States, and its possessions, not including the Philippine Islands."

"The Board shall have power to provide for and administer a loan fund, and Annuity Funds, either in connection with or separate from the Loan Fund, as it may determine.

"The Board shall have authority (1) to organize such bureaus as may be necessary for the successful prosecution of the work; (2) to elect Field Secretaries, with the concurrence of the Corresponding Secretary; (3) to aid, either by donation or loan, or both, the building of churches and parsonages; (4) to make By-Laws for the regulation of its proceedings."

Department of church extension.—"The Department of Church Extension shall encourage the erection of churches in new communities not already adequately supplied; shall assist in the building of churches and parsonages where assistance is most needed; and shall give special attention to church architecture, helping all our societies, when erecting churches, to build structures adapted to their requirements."

Department of city work.—"The Department of City Work shall further in every practicable way the organized religious and social work in places having City Societies, as hereinafter provided; promote the organization of City Societies wherever opportunity offers; aid in making surveys in our cities with special reference to the religious conditions of foreign-speaking peoples, the necessary changes in the location and adaption of church buildings and the relation of the Church to needy and congested communities. It shall also aid in the organization and development of adequate religious centers in the heart of great cities. It shall administer such appropriations as shall be committed to it by the Board."

Department of rural work.—"The Department of Rural Work shall have the following powers and duties: To encourage the organization of Rural Societies as hereinafter provided, and to co-operate with them when established; to make surveys in rural church fields in order to ascertain their resources and needs, and to determine the centers where permanent church enterprises might be established which would serve the whole community; to apportion such funds as may be appropriated for this purpose to strategic centers widely distributed throughout the country for a given period of years and thus to demonstrate the service such a church enterprise can render; to recommend to the responsible organizations cases where denominational exchanges should be made and where co-operative or federated plans could be worked out to prevent overlapping by competing denominations, and also to point out where Churches of our own denomination should be united; to promote the study of rural sociology among our Ministers, and in our Colleges and Theological Schools, and to plan complete Courses of Study in our denominational Colleges for the preparation of those who catch the vision and feel the call to life-work in the rural field; to co-operate with all the allies of the Church in the great task of improving the economic, social, educational and religious life of the people in the rural sections; to have such further powers and duties as will help to keep our Church fully abreast of the best thought and experience of the day concerning rural life."

Department of evangelism.—"The Department of Evangelism shall be established for the purpose of promoting aggressive evangelism throughout the home field. Its special mission shall be to inspire the Church to more earnest pastoral and personal evangelism; to co-operate with District Superintendents, Pastors and City and Rural Societies in evangelistic campaigns where most needed; to assist the Board of Education in prosecuting evangelistic work in colleges and universities and secondary schools; to establish a bureau through which to utilize the services of accredited Methodist evangelists."

Bureaus.—Regularly organized bureaus of the Board are the Bureau of Negro Work, the Bureau of Foreign Language Work, the Bureau of Goodwill Industries, the Bureau of Publicity and Promotion, and the Bureau of Architecture (joint with the Board of Education).

Co-operative relationships.—The Board of Home Missions and Church Extension is co-operating definitely with a number of the boards of the church in doing work in certain fields.

1. The Board of Education and the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension are co-operating in the care of Methodist students at tax-supported and independent educational institutions, the Wesley Foundation work.

2. A committee of six, composed of two representatives from The Methodist Book Concern, two from the Board of Education, and two from the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension, are developing a foreign-language literature, missionary and evangelistic in character.

3. The Woman's Home Missionary Society and the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension are co-operating in a number of special fields.

4. The Board of Education and the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension maintain jointly a Bureau of Architecture.

5. The Board of Home Missions and Church Extension sustains a co-operative relationship to all the other boards of the church through the Co-operating Staff and the World Service Commission.

The reorganization of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension in 1916 enlarged very much its powers and responsibilities. Up to that time the board had been largely a collecting and disbursing agency. Now it is charged with the responsibility not only of surveying city and country communities, but also of developing programs suited to such fields, discovering and helping to give specialized training to a leadership for city centers, foreign-language groups, and rural communities.

Comity and co-operation.—There is a growing appreciation of the importance of closer co-operation with Protestant bodies working in American fields. This spirit of co-operation is having its effect in the administration of our work in many communities and in particular fields such as Porto Rico, Alaska, Hawaii, the Dominican Republic and American Indian fields.

Revolving Fund

which was established five years ago. This fund is composed of the undesignated net balance of interest accruing upon the capital of the Loan Fund after charging thereto annually the amount paid to annuitants and an equitable proportion of the current expenses of the administration of the business of the Board. To this is added such sums as may be released from the General Fund or appropriated by the Board or the Executive Committee from time to time and all returned donations. The principal therefrom shall be loaned to churches upon terms and conditions determined by the Board.

The purpose of this fund is to provide aid to churches which are able to repay the amount received if such aid could be granted on more liberal terms than is possible from our regular Loan Fund. From the sources enumerated above this new Revolving Fund has received in the last five years a total of $1,726,582.43. Of this amount $1,050,568.50 was outstanding at the end of the fiscal year, represented by 201 loans. Most of the balance of this fund is either already granted to churches or will be required to care for approved askings. During the year we also closed thirty-one loans from the regular Loan Fund totaling $138,080.10, and collected on loans previously made a total of $99,193.03, leaving 302 loans outstanding in this fund at the close of the year aggregating $1,004,829,55.

Annuities

In his latest annual report, Treasurer W. J. Elliott says:

"The past year has been one of our best from the standpoint of annuity gifts. During the year we issued forty-nine annuity bonds and special agreements to forty-four annuitants for a total of $492,345.00. Last year we issued sixty-three bonds and agreements to fifty-six annuitants for a total of $122,615.07, while our best previous year brought in a total of $419,091.17. That our annuity bonds give satisfaction is evidenced by the fact that seventeen of the bonds that were issued during the year were to persons already holding one or more of our annuity bonds.

"Included in the annuity gifts of the year is one that should receive special mention. Made by a man and wife who desire no mention made of their names, the gift consists of desirable property that forms a substantial part of the total annuity gifts for the year and carries with it a supplementary agreement that should eventually bring their total gift well above half a million dollars.

"Thirty-one new annuitants were added to the list during the year, while thirty-four passed on to the great beyond. Our annuity family at the close of the year consisted of 579 persons who are receiving their annuity checks regularly and promptly without anxiety or worry as to whether their income is secure. Through the death of the thirty-four annuitants above referred to, sixty-two annuity bonds, totaling $71,254.00, were released from annuity payments aggregating $5,469.64 annually. At the close of the year we had 763 annuity bonds and agreements in force totaling $2,140,673.83."

The Year 1930

A decrease in the home missionary receipts for the fiscal year ending October 31, 1929, made necessary the cutting of maintenance appropriations for home missionary projects for the calendar year 1930 from $1,638,975 in 1929 to $1,383,250 in 1930, a decrease of $244,725, or a percentage decrease of 15.6 per cent. Church extension appropriations were decreased from $450,000 in 1929 to $375,000 in 1930, a decrease of $75,000, or 16.66 per cent. The total appropriations for 1929 for both maintenance and church extension were $2,088,975 and for 1930 $1,758,250, a decrease of $330,725, or 15.83 per cent. This decrease has of course made the year a very difficult one in many home missionary fields.

During the year special studies of particular fields in many States have revealed large and pressing home missionary needs for which no provision can be made because of the shortage of missionary funds.

In the field of rural work continued emphasis has been put upon the larger parish plan with its more adequate program for meeting rural needs. Among its other advantages, this plan usually makes possible more adequately trained and effective leadership.

The organizing of city societies has continued together with the making of surveys of city situations. The difficulty of carrying on home missionary work in city areas is very great and particularly so where adequate financial backing for the work is not available.

The work of evangelism has received special emphasis during the year. Particular attention was given to the promotion of the Pentecost celebration on June 8.

During the year a study of church extension needs has been made in a large number of districts, revealing an amazing number of congregations without any church property at all, another large number most inadequately housed in one-room buildings, and a third group, involving several hundred churches, being cared for in basements.

During the year the Bureau of Architecture, the Bureau of Foreign Language Work, the Bureau of Negro Work, and the Joint Committee on Wesley Foundations have continued their effective ministry in the particular fields of service allotted to them.

The PASTOR'S JOURNAL started in February, 1929, has been sent out regularly, with the exception of the months of July and August, to more than 12,000 pastors, from whom many expressions of appreciation have been received. It is the purpose of the Journal to be of assistance to pastors and other local parish workers in the development of practical plans of service. To a considerable extent the Journal is both a mouthpiece for the various departments and bureaus of the Board and also provides a medium for the exchange of ideas among pastors themselves.

Considerable attention has been given throughout the year to the promotion of interest in World Service causes, particularly in the areas in which the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension has had special responsibility. During the period until June 1 such promotion was carried on in the following areas: Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Buffalo, St. Paul, New Orleans. Since that time the Board has been working in the Chicago, Indianapolis, Covington, Pittsburgh, Helena, Denver, and Kansas City Areas.

THE BOARD OF HOSPITALS, HOMES, AND DEACONESS WORK

33 North High St., Columbus, Ohio

The Board of Hospitals, Homes, and Deaconess Work was reorganized by the General Conference of 1924, "For the promotion and general supervision of an advisory character of all hospitals, homes, other organizations and institutions for the care of the sick, incurables, other dependents, child welfare work, and its general supervision of all deaconess work in the Methodist Episcopal Church and legal control of all deaconesses in said Church."

The Board is co-ordinating and promoting the interests of the local and national institutions by means of publicity and campaign for funds, buildings, and endowments.

It is unifying the work of the various deaconess organizations and recruiting deaconesses and nurses.

The work of the Board is carried on under the direction of the following committees: Personnel, Publicity, Finance, Pension and Endowment, Survey and Standardization, Architecture, American White Cross and Child Welfare, Homes, and General Reference. (For the personnel of the Board see Directory section.)

The survey of the statistics as presented in the Statistics section reveals that there has been a continuous growth in the physical equipment of all types of institutions. Old buildings are being destroyed or rebuilt and many new buildings are in course of construction each year. The Board has for its building slogan, "Build old buildings better and build new buildings to meet the standards."

The personnel work of deaconesses and nurses is improving each year. The body of student nurses has increased one thousand during the past five years. Every nurse entering the training schools is a high-school graduate and many are college graduates. There are approximately 1,050 deaconesses in the United States, of which number 875 are in active work. There are over one thousand deaconesses in Europe, most of whom are graduate nurses who are employed in every form of philanthropic and deaconess service. The deaconess and philanthropic work in Europe is one of Methodism's outstanding Christian enterprises.

The Board pays the pensions of the retired deaconesses and makes provision for the relief of deaconesses who are under the deaconess administrations.

The National Methodist Episcopal Sanatorium for Tuberculosis at Colorado Springs, Colo., has been promoted with success. Over one hundred patients are treated each year. The Sanatorium building is the finest in the Rocky Mountain region and is ministering to needy people from all parts of the nation.

Related Organizations

The National Methodist Hospitals, Homes, and Deaconess Association.—This organization was established in 1919. It holds open forum programs and co-operates with the Board of Hospitals, Homes, and Deaconess Work in making possible a larger vision of the service rendered by the philanthropic and deaconess work of the church. The Association now represents the largest group of philanthropic workers and deaconesses in America. (See Directory section for officers.)

Commission on Organized Work of Women.—The General Conference of 1924 created a Commission on Deaconess Work. At the General Conference of 1928 this Commission presented an extensive report, after which the General Conference created the Commission on Organized Work of Women. This latter Commission is now at work making a thorough study of all the work of the women's organizations in the church. (See Directory section for officers and members.)

Deaconess Administrations

The German Central Deaconess Board.—Organized in 1897. Its purpose is to supervise the deaconess work within the bounds of the German-speaking Conferences in the United States. Its membership is composed of the following: All of the District Superintendents of the German Conferences, one representative from each of the Ladies' Auxiliary Boards of the German Conferences, representatives from the various Deaconess Homes and Hospitals, and seven representatives of the Board of Managers of the Bethesda Hospital. The Board meets in October every two years.

The following institutions are under the supervision of this Board:

(a) The Bethesda Institutions in Cincinnati, comprising the following: 1. The Deaconess Motherhouse. 2. The Bethesda Hospital. 3. The Maternity Hospital. 4. Children's Hospital. 5. The Dorcas Institute. 6. Bethesda School of Nursing. 7. Bethesda Home for the Aged. 8. The Louise Golder Deaconess Home and Fanny Nast Gamble Memorial Chapel. 9. The Nurses' Home. 10. The Gertrude Kolbe Deaconess Rest Home. 11. Epworth Heights Cottage. 12. Lakeside Cottage.

(b) The Bethany Deaconess and Hospital Society, Brooklyn, N. Y. (including the Bethany Deaconess Hospital and the Bethany Home for the Aged).

(c) The Methodist Episcopal Deaconess Hospital, Louisville, Ky.

The Motherhouse conducts the Bethany Home for Young Women in Chicago, Ill., and during the year maintained stations in Milwaukee, Wis., Terre Haute, Ind., Covington, Ky., South Bend, Ind., a Day Nursery in Cincinnati, and Zoar Home in Allison Park, Pa.

The property value of the Cincinnati Institutions, according to the statistics for 1929 (including endowment), is $2,788,500; that of the Branch Home in Chicago, Ill., $75,000; the Brooklyn Institutions, $715,000; the Deaconess Hospital in Louisville, Ky., $123,000; total, $3,701,500.

The Bethesda bimonthly paper of sixteen pages is published by the Cincinnati Institution.

Woman's Home Missionary Society.—This organization has a Deaconess Department which conducts Deaconess Homes, Settlements, and Centers throughout the United States. The Department promotes its work through the following Bureaus: New England and Eastern, Central, Western and Northwestern, and Pacific Coast and Northwest. The work of the Department is administered by the Personnel Secretary, Miss Grace Steiner, 420 Plum St., Cincinnati, Ohio. The Deaconess Emergency and Relief Fund is administered by Mrs. Ella G. Stokes, 2913 Thirteenth St., N. W., Washington, D. C.

The Methodist Deaconess Association.—This is a co-operative organization for the purpose of achieving a closer affiliation of the institutions organized exclusively under local boards, the creation of standards of service and administration, and the raising of relief and retirement funds for those who serve as deaconesses. Membership in the Association is open to deaconesses and to others who are interested in the causes which the organization represents. The following organizations are affiliated in the Association:

Elizabeth Gamble Deaconess Association, Cincinnati, Ohio.—Under the care of this Association are the Christ Hospital, the Christ Hospital School for Nurses, the Elizabeth Gamble Deaconess Home, the Cincinnati Missionary Training School and Beechwood Lodge (rest home for deaconesses), all located in the city of Cincinnati. In training for deaconess work and in practical demonstration of its helpful ministry, this Association represents many forms of deaconess activity. It is the great activity of applied Christianity in the Central West. The entire property of this body is valued in round numbers at $1,925,000.

New England Deaconess Association, 180 Pilgrim Road, Boston, Mass.—The Association conducts the following institutions: Deaconess Hospital and Nurse Training School in Boston; Palmer Memorial Hospital in Boston; Attleboro Springs Home, Attleboro, Mass.; Home for Aged Methodist Women, Fresh Air Home in Natick, Mass.

Maria Beard Deaconess Association, Spokane, Wash.

Seattle Deaconess Home Association, 530 First Ave., North Seattle, Wash.—Institutions: Northwest Training School, 530 First Ave., North Seattle, Wash.; Ruth A. Fogle, Principal; Methodist Deaconess Settlement, 1510 Rainier Ave., Seattle; Charlotte Howland, Superintendent.

BOARD OF PENSIONS AND RELIEF

222 West Adams St., Chicago, Ill.

This Board is authorized by the General Conference to build up and administer a connectional permanent fund for the benefit of Conference claimants; to receive in trust and to administer endowments and other funds for the benefit of Annual Conference deaconesses, medical missionaries, teachers, and other church members who are not members of an Annual Conference; and to assist in whatever ways it can the various Annual Conferences in making provision for their own claimants by the creation of special funds. Further, it is authorized to take such measures as may be necessary to establish a permanent fund for the relief of aged and disabled supply pastors who have served as pastors for fifteen years or more, ten years of which shall have been consecutive, giving their entire time as pastors to the work of the church.

The purpose of the connectional relief fund is to enable the stronger Annual Conferences to be of assistance to the weaker Conferences. The members of these weaker Conferences are part of our brotherhood of Methodist preachers. There are at least 33 such Annual Conferences, or almost one third of our entire American group. Until recently nearly all of our pension plans which provide for operation by Conference units left the less favored Conferences to work out their own destiny and welfare, which in some instances they can never do. But there is developing in the Church a new conscience of brotherhood which recognizes that the uneven load of the less favored Conferences must be borne in part at least by the stronger Conferences.

One of the chief troubles of any pension plan is the administration of the invested funds. According to the Discipline the Conference stewards administer these funds. The stewards not only pass upon the claims of the annuitants, estimating the amount required for their individual needs, but also act as trustees of the fund which provides the income from which the annuitants are paid. Unless the Conference stewards are very able business men with considerable experience in the matter of investing money, there is grave danger of loss of large amounts of money meant to be held sacredly in trust for ministerial families. To meet this danger the Board of Pensions and Relief has offered to act as trustee for a part or all of the fund of any Annual Conference so desiring. At the present time the Board is serving in this capacity for 30 Annual Conferences. The Board maintains a Business Department which watches the investments daily. Careful study of the securities held by the Board is made each year by the most competent research organizations and every security purchased is selected by a committee and approved by the executive committee and not merely by an individual. Such a procedure has not always been done in the case of the administration of the Annual Conference funds. If it had been done throughout the Annual Conferences, thousands of dollars would have been saved in the past quadrennium.

All of the colored Conferences have passed resolutions authorizing the Board of Pensions to act as trustee of their funds. The Conference stewards make complete Disciplinary reports on all claimants, and strictly account for all money paid by the churches. They also pay by check the first quarter claim, except where the annual allowance is not more than $50, in which case they will pay one half the year's allowance. The balance of the monies collected will be sent to the Board of Pensions, which will issue the other checks direct to the claimants during the year. This procedure has strengthened the work tremendously in respect to the colored Conferences.

Conference mergers continue, and the Board has been able to give considerable service in working out the equities to be recognized in the transfer of pension funds. This matter of merging Conferences involves a very serious problem. While the social phase of the merger is important, the proper protection of the financial equities involved is of greater importance. If the Board had a chance to help in these considerations before the merger is effected, rather than be called in to serve in a sort of post-mortem examination, it could render a better service.

Last Spring the Board modified its plan of Conference visitation. Instead of going or sending someone to each Annual Conference session for a three to ten minute speech, it confined its visits to those Conferences where the Board was invited to send representatives. The regular staff of the Board, with the help of several of its experienced members, was able to answer all the calls that came. As a consequence, our expense was greatly reduced. We believe the change in the plan of visitation was wholesome and good.

The Reserve Pension Plan

Brief Analysis

In approaching the Plan announced by the commission the first requisite is an inquiring mind. Such mind will free itself from many of the details discussed at last General Conference and before, holding only the basal principles previously laid down. This is a new and different application of those principles.

For example: The plan presented during the previous quadrennium was for a churchwide fund, centrally administered to pensioners in all Conferences. General Conference ordered a plan limited to Conferences, to be adopted by Conferences as units of calculation. That plan considered the probability of commuting into the new plan the claims of groups of Conference membership who had accrued liabilities. This plan considers primarily taking "New Entrants" only and by easy stages getting the new principles into operation, while accrued liabilities are protected under the Old Plan.

Basal Principles

Two vital principles distinguished the new plan from the 1908 Plan.

(a) The new builds up a reserve as the years of service are increased, which reserve by means of compound interest grows to meet the expected need. It is actual preparation for the demand that will surely come. A considerable share of the pension is "grown" or "builded" by the compound interest accumulations.

(b) The other principle is that the minister member contributes regularly a small per cent of his support which comes back to him with its compound interest.

In distinction from these items of "contributory" and "reserve," the present plan has been called a "collection plan." It "trusts" that the church will raise the money some way when the minister or his family become pensioners. The one way to anticipate that need is to build up Conference endowments, which earn simple interest (not compound), and that interest is distributed year by year. Consequently shortage in collections, large increase in number of pensioners or in annuity years, drop in interest rates, and such conditions cause the pension to fluctuate. It takes vastly more endowment at simple interest to meet the need than Reserve at compound interest. One thousand dollars at 4½ per cent compounded for twenty years grows to $2,411.71. One thousand dollars at 4½ per cent simple interest earns just $45 yearly, which when spent each year leaves only the original $1,000 at the end of twenty years.

With these principles in mind note the items of the plan, and its advantages.

1. Any Annual or Mission Conference can put its "New Entrants" after a given date into the new plan by a two-thirds vote of those present and voting (C Sec. 1), and by showing the Board of Pensions and Relief that it has a sufficient "Guaranty Reserve Fund" to carry these "New Entrants" year by year without decreasing the annuity then given to the Conference members, whose pension comes from the present plan. (N Sec. 1.)

2. The Annual Conference may begin its contributions on the rate of 5½ per cent of the average pastoral support of its New Entrants, if it so desires, and the New Entrants begin their contributions at 2½ per cent. What the member pays is kept strictly to his personal credit.

3. The Annual Conference makes the collections of the Conference contribution and adjudicates any question of shortage. (D Sec. 3.)

4. The amount of money thus collected and forwarded to the Board of Pensions and Relief through the years fixes the size of the pension at time of retirement. The more contributed the larger the pension returned. This can be estimated rather accurately in advance for an Annual Conference when all of the conditions are known.

5. The Pension due at age sixty-five is made up of these two contributions and is calculated for man and wife. If a widow survives the member she shall receive three fourths of the pension both would have received if both were living. (F Sec. 1, 2.) (G Sec. 1, 2). The orphan child's pension is fixed. (H Sec. 1, 2.)

6. If the member became disabled while under sixty-five years he received a disability allowance and contributions for his pension are carried for him by the Fund. (K Sec. 1, 2.)

7. A fixed ratio of distribution of the amount contributed by the Conference provides for the largest share (70 per cent) to go to the pension fund (L Sec. 1, 2.) A small percentage is set aside for a contingent fund which is to be applied where most needed (L Sec. 5, 6).

8. The Present Pension Fund and the New Plan can be operated in the same Conference without encroaching upon each other (M Sec. 1, 2, 3).

9. Provision is made for ministers under the Present Plan to be changed by their Conference to the New Plan when the Conference sets up the proper reserves to cover their previous liabilities (M Sec. 2).

It should be clear that the chief advantage of the New Plan over the Present Plan is not the larger pensions promised now, but the assurance of an adequate, steady pension at time of retirement, rather than a fluctuating, uncertain pension as at present. Take this one of many possible actual cases: X Conference was paying $20 annuity rate. In 1925 they merged with another Conference and soon dropped in rate to $18. They then took in a large segment of another Conference and now are paying $17 rate, though raising endowment constantly. Similar instances of reduction are occurring in Conferences where no mergers have taken place.

The other advantage of the New Plan is that when it has come to be the plan for the Church it can be operated on much lower contribution from the churches than is needed for these fluctuating, uncertain pensions. By calculation and not a guess, at that time Methodism's pensions will be substantial in size, regular in payment, and economical in cost—a consummation devoutly to be desired.

Obviously, there is no place for opposition in the next General Conference to the acceptance of this New Reserve Pension Fund Plan. The option as to its use is with the Annual Conference, and unless a Conference desires to make use of its advantages it need not concern itself over the plan. It is now one of the two plans available to Conferences and is to be considered strictly on its merits and its suitability to any given Conference.

It has from the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning, bulletin No. 25, this very high commendation:

"It appears to be one of the soundest and most promising retirement plans for ministers that it has been our good fortune to examine." (Dr. Savage.)

Supply Pastors' Relief

With the new Plan adopted and available to the Conferences for their members, the need is sometimes expressed for a better provision for aged and disabled Supply Pastors and their dependent survivors. There is no prospect of the number decreasing, since the standards for admission to Annual Conference membership are being raised constantly. Clearly, therefore, we must face the situation with seriousness until something more just and equitable shall have been provided. The Embury-Strawbridge Fund, created for Relief of Aged and Disabled Supply Pastors, now has $8,270. From resources at our disposal, we were able this year to care for 90 ministers and 31 widows. The total amount distributed was $11,555. This is, of course, a good beginning.

Savings-in-Trust Account

One of the signal advancements of the past year was the development in the Ministers' Provident Annuity Fund of the Savings-In-Trust account. It is not a departure from the plan or intention of the Board in establishing that Fund. But the rules had fixed a rather forbidding handicap, and the statement of the contract was in such intricate legal phraseology that preachers often felt they could not understand the agreement. By restating that agreement in familiar language and removing the penalty for withdrawal, the plan has become so popular that in twelve months' operation 389 accounts have been opened with a total of $223,674. Any minister can start an account by depositing one dollar, or more, and signing the contract or working agreement. Such amounts as he may desire to add at any time may be deposited. The Board agrees to care for these deposits and allow the highest average net earning of the invested funds of the Board, calculated on daily balances.

TRINITY METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Life Annuity Bonds

The Annuity Fund has had an active and prosperous year. The report of the Business Representative shows receipts of $113,450.

After intensive and continued study of these Annuity Contracts, a plan, as commended by the Executive Committee, was adopted.

Three forms of Bonds are being issued, to be designated respectively as follows: Class A, Guaranteed Life Income Bonds; Class B, Term Income Bonds; Class C, Guaranteed Life Income and Refunding Bonds.

The Class A Bond provides for a quarterly payment to the annuitant during life, at a rate equivalent to the net average rate earned on the general investments of the Board in the preceding year, with a minimum rate of five per cent.

The Class B Bond provides a coupon for a definite amount of interest on the principal, payable semi-annually, for a definite term of years.

The Class C Bond provides for payment of life annuities at rates currently authorized by the World Service Commission. Where such rates exceed five per cent of the principal, the Bond will show that the annuity is composed of two portions: viz., interest at five per cent, and the balance of the annuity as a refund of principal.

It is provided that the principal or the residue of principal of each or all of these Bonds, after termination of the annuity obligation, shall be used by the Board for the furtherance of its work in any manner it may deem fit.

In the present limited number of lives covered by our Annuity Contracts we are in no wise protected by a wide distribution of life risk such as must be had for safety. To provide security at this point, the policy of Insurance Companies is to reinsure part of their risks in other large companies.

Therefore, the Board has reinsured in one of the large insurance companies of America its annuity contracts, thus giving additional security to such annuitants and to the Board in the residue of such gifts. Hereafter all such contracts will be reinsured.

BOARD OF TEMPERANCE, PROHIBITION AND PUBLIC MORALS

100 Maryland Ave., Washington, D. C.

Historical Sketch

The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, with offices at Washington, D. C., is the outgrowth of the permanent Committee on Temperance and Prohibition established by the General Conference of 1888.

In 1904, the General Conference broadened the work of this committee, changed its name to the Temperance Society, and designated headquarters at Chicago. The General Conference of 1908 again broadened the constitution of the Society and published it in the Discipline, apportioned $25,000 for its support and requested pastors to make freewill offerings.

The Board of Managers, meeting in May, 1910, voted to elect two men to devote their entire time to the temperance reform in the United States. At a special meeting in July, Rev. Clarence True Wilson, D.D., then pastor in Portland, Oregon, was elected field secretary, and Rev. Alfred Smith, D.D., was elected assistant field secretary.

In 1912, the General Conference moved the headquarters of the Society to Topeka, Kansas, from which place the work was carried on until 1916 when the present Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals was created and headquarters established in Washington, D. C.

The offices of the Board are now housed in The Methodist Building, First Street and Maryland Avenue, N. E., Washington, D. C.

Purpose

The purpose of the Board, as stated in the Discipline, is to seek to "create a Christian public sentiment, which will relate the principles of the gospel of Christ to the economic, political, industrial, and social relations of life," and to "crystallize opposition to all public violations of moral law and to all attempts to undermine or destroy established civil and religious liberties."

To this end, the Board, through educational measures, seeks to promote voluntary total abstinence, stands for the enforcement of constitutional and statutory prohibition laws, and conducts an educational campaign dealing with other phases of public morals.

The Organization

The work of the Board is supervised by the General Secretary, assisted by the heads of the various Departments, who are responsible for the activities delegated to their Departments.

Research and Education.—Gathers for immediate use and for file reference all information used in publications and other literature; editorial supervision of "The Voice," "Clipsheet," books and educational materials; supervises general educational program; directs general publicity; maintains statistical files; maintains study and contact with circular and religious educational organizations.

Field.—Represents Board on field at Annual and District Conferences, rallies, special gatherings, and maintains contact with interest and supporting constituency.

Young People's Work.—Supervises and promotes specialized work among Methodist young people, including work in local churches, institutes, etc. Increasing emphasis is being placed on work of this Department and it is being enlarged. The thousands of uninformed young people must be acquainted with facts, especially pre-prohibition conditions.

Colored Work.—Carries on entire work of education and information among colored people; now specializing in an educational moral suasion pledge-signing campaign.

Office.—General office management.

The Activities

1. Research:
   a. Special study has been made of trends and developments in secular and educational fields as background for building Temperance Educational Program.
   b. Study of prohibition operation and benefits from all angles.
   c. Analysis of public sentiment—newspaper attitudes.
   d. Most complete files of any similar organization.

Publications:
   a. "The Voice," published monthly and sent to all Methodist ministers, giving fresh-up-to-the-minute information.
   b. The "Clipsheet," published weekly and sent to all daily and most weekly newspapers, Washington correspondents, influential leaders and others. Recognized as strong and influential.
   c. Books and leaflets published and circulated, dealing with temperance, prohibition and moral questions.
   d. Educational material produced—programs, leaflets, posters, plays, etc.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM:

a. Materials produced for use of local churches in carrying forward temperance educational program. All types of material are studied as guides.
b. World Temperance Sunday—complete material and program produced and circulated.
c. Church-wide Total Abstinence Enrollment projected—announcement to all churches.
d. Church-wide Prohibition Essay Contest—open to Methodist young people. This is annual.
e. Distribution of literature to colleges and high schools.
f. Lecture programs in colleges.
g. Co-operative work in Epworth League Institutes, etc.
h. Co-operative work in carrying forward community temperance educational work.

FIELD:

a. Visitation to Annual and District Conferences.
b. Addresses in local churches, rallies, schools, etc.
c. Joint-debates.
d. Co-operative work with allied organizations.
e. Cultivation work with individuals and groups.
f. World Service co-operation.

New Projects and Old Ones Enlarged

1. Church-wide Total Abstinence Enrollment:
   Stronger emphasis will be placed on this in 1931, until every church is reached. It is hoped the Abstinence pledge will be presented to every member and constituent of the Methodist Episcopal Church.
2. College Work:
   Invitations have been extended and will be accepted to visit a number of Methodist schools and colleges where lecture and experimental work will be carried on.
3. New Temperance Material:
   The present Program Units will be supplemented and enlarged with materials designed for the various age groups.
4. Literature Distribution:
   Emphasis will be placed on the increased use and circulation of temperance literature through the local churches.

WOMAN'S FOREIGN MISSIONARY SOCIETY

150 Fifth Avenue, New York

Historical Statement

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society was organized on March 23, 1869, in Tremont Street Church, Boston. Eight women were the founders. During the first year this new organization sent two missionaries to the field, Isabella Thoburn, who opened the first school of the Society in Lucknow, India, and Clara Swain, M.D., who began medical work in Bareilly, India. The first meeting of the General Executive Committee was held in Boston in 1870 and the receipts reported for that first year were $4,546.86.

During the sixty-one years of its existence the Society has sent to the field 1,476 missionaries who have engaged in educational, medical and evangelistic work. It has begun and is maintaining work on five continents in nineteen countries as follows: Africa, Algeria, Angola, Portuguese East Africa, Rhodesia. Asia: China, India and Burma, Japan and Korea, Malaya, Netherlands Indies, Philippine Islands. Europe: Bulgaria, France, Italy. Latin America North and South: Mexico, Argentina, Peru, Uruguay.

The missionaries of the Society in active service number 727, of whom 39 went to the field this last year. The total staff of workers indigenous and foreign in all departments is 6,686.

Present Purpose

The present purpose of the organization is, (1) to provide Christian education, to establish Christian hospitals and always by direct contact with those of other lands to present Christ as their Saviour, (2) to train nationals who will be leaders and who themselves will direct Christian agencies for the extension of the Kingdom, (3) to co-operate in fullest measure with Christian women of other nations and together with them work out a Christian program for the womanhood and the childhood of the world, (4) to help create, in the women and girls of the younger churches, an eager desire to extend the blessings of the Gospel throughout their own and other lands.

Administration

The general administration of the affairs of the Society is vested in the General Executive Committee, which is composed of the general officers, the special secretaries, the corresponding secretary, the secretary of the Home Base and two delegates from each Branch. For purposes of administration there are two departments—the Foreign Department, composed of one vice-president as chairman, the treasurer of the Society, and the Branch corresponding secretaries; the Home Department, composed of one vice-president as chairman, and Branch secretaries of the Home Base. The president of the Society is ex officio a member of both departments. The Society is made up of eleven coordinate Branches, each having its own missionaries and sending its own money to the field, subject to the approval of the General Executive Committee. The Branch corresponding secretary is the link between the Branch and the Foreign Department which transacts all business pertaining to the foreign field. The secretary of the Home Base connects the Branch with the Home Department, which is charged with the duty of developing and strengthening the Society in the church at home.

A Survey of Finances

For the fiscal year October 1, 1929, to October 1, 1930, receipts are as follows:

FROM BRANCHES

New England	$92,136.90
New York	266,423.50
Philadelphia	341,255.30
Baltimore	55,080.89
Cincinnati	336,754.71

Total from Branches	$2,276,374.01
From Other Sources	119,699.74
Grand Total	$2,396,073.75

Invested Fund	$2,271,265.77
Annuity Funds	748,240.35
Retirement Fund Endowment	947,127.46
Received for Land, Buildings and Non-recurring Items (1930)	245,209.12
Value of Real Estate Abroad	8,642,868.00

The Society owns no real estate in the United States. Of every dollar collected since the organization of the Society about twenty cents have been invested in the real estate which forms the plant in which its work is carried on.

The expense of administration at home is about 5½ per cent of the receipts. Ninety-four and one half cents of every dollar reaches the field.

A carefully worked-out budget guards the appropriations, and an orderly system of distribution of new funds to foreign Conferences gives assurance that each shall receive due increase in resources in proportion to its need and to the Society's ability to meet that need. The twelve months end with appropriations met in full.

Achievements of the Year

All appropriations met, no cut on the field, no debt except $12,881.00, carried by one Branch. Work on field proceedings, spite of war, banditry, communism, political upheaval.

The new International Department aims to stimulate missionary activity among Methodist women in every land. Local groups form national units which in turn federate in a world organization. Each unit is autonomous and adapted to local needs, but the common aim of all is the "application of and extension of the Gospel of Christ." This Department was launched at the Sixtieth Anniversary, with the help of nationals and missionaries present. It has made remarkable growth. Already fourteen countries have asked for affiliation. Several units have assumed support of their own missionaries.

Projects for 1931

In 1931 the aim of the Society is to meet all appropriations, which this year include no advance. Then when the money for the continuance of work already begun is paid or pledged in full, as an "over and above," the College Abroad Movement is to be undertaken—a movement to better equip and house our colleges. This is necessary if the colleges are to maintain the standard needful for the training of national leaders.

The amounts asked for the colleges are as follows:

Hwa Nan College	$50,000
Isabella Thoburn College	25,000
Kwassui Jo Gakko	65,000
Woman's College of West China	25,000
Woman's Christian College of Korea	40,000

WOMAN'S HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Office: 420 Plum St., Cincinnati, Ohio

The Woman's Home Missionary Society was organized in Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, in Cincinnati, Ohio, June 8, 1880. The organization was the result of the activities of Mrs. J. C. Hartzell (whose husband was President of the New Orleans University and who later became Bishop) of New Orleans, Louisiana, in behalf of the Negro women and children in the great southern city. Mrs. R. S. Rust, Mrs. J. L. Whetstone and Mrs. F. S. Hoyt (all of Cincinnati), the Committee on Constitution appointed June 8th, reported July 6, 1880, and the Constitution of the new Society was adopted.

The first President was Mrs. Rutherford B. Hayes (wife of the President of the United States). The officers who served with her were Mrs. John B. Davis, Vice-President; Mrs. R. S. Rust, Corresponding Secretary; Mrs. A. R. Clark, Treasurer; Mrs. James Dale, Recording Secretary.

Successors to Mrs. Hayes as Presidents of the Society have been, Mrs. J. B. Davis, Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk, Mrs. George O. Robinson, Mrs. W. P. Thirkield and Mrs. W. H. C. Goode.

Successors to Mrs. R. S. Rust as Corresponding Secretaries have been, Mrs. Delia Lathrop Williams, Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff, and Mrs. V. F. De Vinny.

Successors to Mrs. A. R. Clark as Treasurers have been, Mrs. D. L. Williams, Mrs. George H. Thompson, Mrs. H. C. Jennings, Mrs. Ward Platt and Mrs. J. H. Freeman.

Succeeding Mrs. James Dale as Recording Secretary have been, Mrs. F. A. Aiken, Mrs. D. D. Thompson and Mrs. J. Luther Taylor.

Thus for the fifty years of service these women have served the Society as executive officers.

Present Purpose

The present purpose of the Woman's Home Missionary Society cannot be more clearly stated than it is in the Constitution as follows:

"The object of this Society shall be to enlist and organize Christian women and young people in behalf of the needy, without distinction of race, and to co-operate with other societies and agencies in Educational, Missionary, and Deaconess work throughout the United States and its territories."

Administrative Plans

The Board of Managers, consisting of the Board of Trustees, other National Officers and Conference representatives (elected by the Conference Woman's Home Missionary Societies), is the law-making body of the Society and meets annually.

The Board of Trustees consists of the officers of the Society and sixteen additional Trustees elected by the Annual Meeting of the Board of Managers.

The duties of the Board of Trustees are (a) to execute all orders of the Board of Managers; (b) to administer all the affairs of the Society between the sessions of the Board of Managers; (c) to make appropriations for the ensuing year.

The work of the Society is organized into Departments, Bureaus, and Standing Committees, each of which shall have responsibility in its own field of executing the plans, applying the funds, and securing conformity to the rules of work as ordered by the Board of Managers or by the Board of Trustees; shall be responsible for the care of all buildings and equipment; and shall report at the regular meetings of the Board of Trustees as requested.

Activities 1930

All regular activities have been conducted as usual during the fiscal year 1929–1930 through the regular channels of administration and finance.

The completion of the 50th Anniversary Program, extending from 1925 to 1930, in the great Jubilee Meeting held in Cincinnati, Ohio, the birthplace of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, was the outstanding event of the year.

The completion of the Jubilee Program in reaching the Goals set five years ago has constituted the special work of the year.

From the Fifty Years History by Mrs. Dan B. Brummitt, we quote:

"The nature of the Jubilee Idea, Slogan, Picture, and Program made the slogan 'Looking Backward: Thinking Forward' most beautiful and appropriate. Around this rallying cry grew the Project Picture, which is merely the visualizing of the five-years' program. Two subjects or projects were given the loyal constituency each year, one an existing form of work which was to receive study, the other the Jubilee Project for special gifts and emphasis during the year. Since the Jubilee celebration was to be stressed for five years, it became possible to let each year's program represent not only a Jubilee program, but a decade of history making.

"When we entered the Jubilee celebration there was urgent need of strengthening and enlarging homes, schools, and settlements; it was natural therefore that the first Thinking Forward project should be buildings. A building program of more than a million and a half dollars was undertaken.

"The original Jubilee Building Programs given below, with the exception of the last three, are paid for. These—Marcy Center, Brewster Hospital, and Epworth School for Girls—were not started until two thirds of the money needed was in the hands of the National Treasurer, so it is reasonable to expect that at completion they will be paid for.

"Jesse Lee Home, Seward, Alaska	$125,000
Esther Hall, Cincinnati, Ohio	15,500
Harwood Home, Albuquerque, New Mexico	130,000
Community Center, Bingham Canyon, Utah	32,000
Portland Center, Portland, Oregon	107,000
Mothers' Jewels Home, York, Nebraska	76,000
Brewster Hospital, Jacksonville, Florida	250,000
Marcy Center, Chicago, Illinois	225,000
Epworth School for Girls, Webster Groves, Missouri	100,000
Total	$1,060,500

"To this original list has been added for Jubilee credit and gifts:

Hull Street Medical Mission, Boston, Massachusetts	$80,000
Blodgett Community House, Hazleton, Pennsylvania	48,000
Browning Home, Camden, South Carolina	130,000
Ethel Harpst Settlement, Cedartown, Georgia	60,000
Erie Home, Olive Hill, Kentucky	40,000
Ponca Mission, White Eagle, Oklahoma	18,000
Peek Orphanage, Polo, Illinois	50,000
Navajo Mission, Farmington, New Mexico	15,000
Total	$441,000
Original total	$1,060,500
Grand total	$1,501,500"

Year by year the "Looking Backward: Thinking Forward" Projects have given the membership opportunity to study history and prophecy, until the final showing of the Project Picture came as the close of the great pageant, "Fifty Years Victorious" (by Mrs. Ruth M. Worrell), which closed the Jubilee Meeting in Cincinnati.

"The last moments of the pageant were made colorful and dramatic by the massing of the peoples before the Project Picture, each before the panel depicting their own race group.

"The torch was passed to the Spirit of Youth by the Chairman of the Jubilee as great groups of youth poured into the aisles, onto the platform, while the light slowly faded from the Project Picture. Then from the throats of the massed groups and from the great choir burst The Hallelujah Chorus. The President pronounced the session closed. In the hush of the moment the benediction was pronounced and a seven-fold Amen breathed the spirit of the occasion and The Jubilee was ended."

The celebration of Pentecost during 1930 has given the Woman's Home Missionary Society opportunity to emphasize spiritual life in Pentecostal Retreats which were under the Departments of Evangelism and Stewardship.

These gatherings under Conference, District, or Auxiliary auspices have been marked by a deepening spiritual life and consecration has been the inevitable result.

Achievements of 1930

Total enrollment of Missionaries, Deaconesses and other workers in National, Deaconess and Conference Institutions,—1,690.

Total students resident in National, Deaconess, and Conference Institutions,—3,354.

Total enrollment in Kindergartens, Daily Vacation Bible Schools, and Schools of Week Day Religious Education,—27,949.

Building into the lives of students Strong Physiques, Cultured Mentality, Moral and Religious Characters.

Training young women in National Training Schools for Missionaries.

Deaconesses and Nurse Training Schools in connection with our Hospitals.

Building into the lives of our constituency:

1. The needs of our country because of un-Christian conditions.
2. The needs for the types of services rendered by the Woman's Home Missionary Society.
3. The conviction of individual responsibility.
4. Teaching and training through the years in the essentials of Evangelism, Stewardship and Christian Citizenship.

Projects 1931

The Torch of Youth having been transmitted by the Woman's Home Missionary Society to the youth of the organization, it became quite natural that the "Forward Looking Program" is entitled "Seeing Youth."

The project for 1930–1931 is Youth. The aim is "Making Missions Modern." There is no gap between adult and youth in the essentials, and if adults must cheerfully discard some dear traditions, youth at the same time must patiently acquire the far look that means responsibility. It is wise to select this project as the first for our second fifty years, for it lays a foundation on reality as safe as that of our founders which we have not yet outgrown.

We must put "YOU" in youth. At the same time our young people must look at their activities as critically as they look at themselves in the mirror. Out of this year of self-analysis should come an unbiased evaluation that will help to point the way to the next step in modernizing missions.

How can we get this youth's year into the minds of our members—our mothers and daughters? We must study youth at school, youth and citizenship, youth and the church, youth and peace, youth and the movies, youth at play, youth in industry, youth and marriage, and through the study must run the continual thought of service—youth and missions. Our regular study courses, as announced in the "flier" already sent out, have as their theme "The Caribbean Islands." We have combined this study course with a suggested plan for carrying out our project, Youth, in a challenging program.

Our regular administrative and financial plans will be carried by the various Departments, Bureaus, and Standing Committees according to provision in the Constitution of the Society for maintenance in both National, Deaconess, and Conference Institutions.

WORLD SERVICE

740 Rush Street, Chicago, Ill.

The World Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church entered upon its seventh year June 1, 1930. It consists of the work of the Church through its six "Boards of Benevolence" and the American Bible Society. This work is correlated by the World Service Commission, which is created by the General Conference and composed of one layman and one minister from each Episcopal Area nominated by the General Conference delegates of the respective areas and elected by the General Conference; six members at large, three ministers and three laymen, nominated by the bishops and elected by the General Conference and three bishops, elected by the bishops. There are certain advisory members, one from the American Bible Society, two each from the Woman's Home Missionary Society, two each from the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and three from foreign fields appointed annually by the bishops.

There are three divisions of the World Service administration and promotion. The first is the central receiving treasury established by the commission under a treasurer elected by the commission. This office performs a wide range of duties pertaining to the receipt of World Service funds and their distribution to the Boards. A statement of receipts and disbursements by this office for the sixth World Service year follows:

The total expense of maintaining the Central Receiving Treasury during the sixth World Service year was .987 of one per cent of the total income for the year.

The second division of World Service administration and promotion is directed by the Co-operating Staff, which consists of the corresponding secretaries of the Constituent Boards. The Staff elects an executive secretary from outside their own number.

Promotion of Education and enlistment in World Service are of two principal kinds. The first is performed jointly by the Constituent Boards through the Co-operating Staff office in Chicago. It includes general education in the meanings of World Service with seasonal messages to the Church five times a year, at the Lenten season, in February, in May and October, and at Christmas, the adoption of emphasis upon regular monthly remittance to the Central Receiving Treasury and semi-annual clearance in full to date, in May and October.

The Co-operating Staff maintains departments as follows: Stewardship, Missionary Education, Research and Field Work, Plays and Pageants, Local World Service Councils, Stereopticon Lectures, and Publicity.

Throughout the year the Co-operating Staff seeks to lay emphasis upon the following aims:

1. Church-wide fellowship of prayer for World Service.
2. Organization and active work of a World Service Council in each charge, district, Conference and area.
3. Increase in the number of contributors to World Service through the Every-Member Canvass and other means.
4. The acceptance by each charge, district, and area of a proportionate financial goal.
5. A per capita giving sought for of at least ten cents per week for each Methodist.
6. Regular monthly remittance from each charge.
7. The use in the local church of regular methods of missionary education.
8. The systematic enlistment of larger personal contributions.

In the third place, an important part of the work of education, inspiration and enlistment performed by each of the Boards which are otherwise known as "World Service Agencies."

These Boards are: The Board of Foreign Missions; The Board of Home Missions and Church Extension; The Board of Education; The Board of Pensions and Relief; The Board of Hospitals, Homes and Deaconess Work; The Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals; The American Bible Society; The World Service Commission.

In such fashion as is best adapted to its program, and to the desires of area leaders, each board promotes World Service in certain regularly assigned Episcopal Areas each year.

The total cost of promotion through the Co-operating Staff and Constituent Boards during the fifth World Service year was six per cent (6.017%) of the total disbursements. The total "overhead" for both administration and promotion of the Central organization and of the Constituent Boards was ten and one third per cent (10.311%) of the total amount disbursed.

THE AMERICAN BIBLE SOCIETY

Bible House, Astor Place, New York

Historical Statement

Aroused by the great dearth of Bibles and Testaments in the country, representatives of recently organized local Bible Societies on the Eastern seaboard instituted the American Bible Society in 1816, twelve years after the first Bible Society, the British and Foreign. The first president was Elias Boudinot, president of the Congress at the conclusion of the Revolutionary War.

For more than two generations the Society's work in the United States was carried on through an extensive system of auxiliary societies. After 1890 the auxiliaries largely disappeared and were replaced by Agencies, now ten in number, each covering one or more States.

Scriptures were sent to Latin America as early as 1819. The Levant Agency was established in 1836; the La Plata (Argentina, etc.) in 1864; China, Japan, and Brazil in 1876; Mexico in 1878; West Indies in 1882; Siam in 1890; Caribbean in 1892; Philippines in 1899; Upper Andes in 1919; Arabic-Levant in 1921. Active work preceded the Agencies in these fields by many years.

The relationship between the Society and the Methodist Episcopal Church has been close from early days; since 1840 the Society has been one of the recognized missionary agencies of the church.

Purpose

The constitutional purpose of the Society, dating from its foundation, is "to encourage a wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures without note or comment." It fulfills this purpose (1) by the translation of the Scriptures into languages that do not possess them, and by the revision of inadequate versions; (2) by publication in many languages in suitable varieties and excellent quality; (3) by distribution of the Scriptures throughout the United States and forty foreign countries, through sales without purpose of profit and by partial or full grants where required, and (4) by the promotion of a Universal Bible Society.

First Methodist Episcopal Church
Tucson, Arizona

The Society serves the churches by circulating the Scriptures, seeking to make them available to all, that men, having before their eyes the great Book, may, in the words of the Gospel of John, believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing they may have life through his name.

Organization and Administration

The Society is a membership organization; direct contributors of Five Dollars a year are Annual Members, of Fifty Dollars at one time are Life Members. At the Annual Meeting, on the second Thursday in May, one fourth of the governing Board of Managers of forty-eight lay men and women is chosen. Ministerial Life Members serving on committees vote with the lay Managers. The Managers elect the Society's officers, and each month review the work of the Society and the actions of standing committees on Versions, Home Agencies, and Auxiliaries, Foreign Agencies, Ways and Means, Finance, Publication, and General Reference. One General Secretary cares for the relation of the Society to its supporting constituency, including more than a score of denominations and many individuals. The other General Secretary supervises the work of translation and revision and with an Assistant Secretary administers the work of distribution through the ten Agencies in the United States and the twelve Agencies abroad and in countries in Africa, Europe, Asia, and Micronesia not covered by the Agencies. The Treasurer, in addition to the care of investments, property, accounting and finance, supervises the publication, supply, and shipment of Scriptures in the United States.

Each of the twenty-two Agencies of the Society, which serve thirty-nine countries besides the United States, Alaska, and Hawaii, is directed by an Agency Secretary, who supervises the work of distribution in his territory through colporteurs, missionaries, and volunteer workers. In addition to publication in the United States, the Society publishes Scriptures in Tokyo, Shanghai, Manila, Bangkok, Chiengmai, Beirut, Constantinople, and Vienna.

In the United States the auxiliary Bible Societies, some of which have whole States for their territories, participate in the circulation of Scriptures in their own areas, and by contributions, in the world work.

The headquarters of the Bible Society have been, since 1853, the Bible House, on Astor Place, New York City, a brick building covering an entire city block. This has served for the offices of the Society, its warerooms, and until a few years ago for its printing and binding plant. The Society has Bible Houses also in Cristobal, Manila, and Peiping (formerly Peking).

Current Work

In translation of the Scriptures and revision of former translations a number of new publications have been completed in the Indian languages of America: The Acts of the Apostles in Cheyenne, the four Gospels in Hopi (the first in this language), the Psalms in Bolivian Quechua. Much significant work is in process: The New Testament in Cakchiquel (Guatemala) and Spanish is going through the press; Aymara (Bolivia), Four Gospels and Acts, and Valiente (Panama), Saint John, are awaiting publication. The revision of the Siamese New Testament has been completed and will shortly be published. Translations in process are the Mam New Testament (Guatemala), Miao Mark (Siam), Samareño Old Testament (Philippines). New transliterations and transcriptions in process are the Tai Lu Portions (Siam) and Sulu Moro Luke (Philippines). Revisions are in process on the Turkish New Testament, the Chinese Canton Colloquial Old Testament, the Siamese Old Testament, the Tagalog (Philippines) Old Testament, the Ilocano (Philippines) Old Testament. A new diglot, Japanese and Portuguese Saint John, was published for Japanese immigrants in Brazil.

In distribution there are few features that make one year's work differ from another; the steady work of colporteurs, correspondents, and volunteer helpers in the more than forty-five countries reached by the Society produces the steady flow of Scriptures to the hands and minds of the destitute and the unevangelized. The statistics cited below give the summary for the year.

Some items, however, give color to the figures. In the United States widespread use was made of the Society's one cent editions in the reading of Saint Luke and Acts during the period of the observance of Pentecost. The large demand for books in Latin America has taxed the budgets of several Agencies there, especially that of Brazil. In the Far East the issues in China have continued at a high level. Noteworthy shipments from the Bible House, New York, during the year were 5,000 Bulu New Testaments to the Cameroun in Africa and 500 Bibles to the Gilbert Islands (Micronesia).

Statistics

Issues in the last completed year were: 309,204 Bibles, 571,245 Testaments, 10,222,215 Gospels and other Portions, a total of 11,102,664. Of these there were issued from the Foreign Agencies 54,475 Bibles, 156,262 Testaments, 6,722,206 Gospels and other Portions, a total of 6,932,943. The issues at home and abroad included Scriptures in 179 languages, dialects, and systems for the blind.

The Society and the Churches

The recognition which ever since the beginning the Methodist Episcopal Church has accorded to the Society has been of great value. Again and again the General Conference has, through its committee on the Society's work, reviewed its activities and problems, and has constantly indorsed it in terms that are at once a commendation and a challenge. This attitude, shared by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and by many other denominations, has encouraged still others to a like friendship with the Society. The Society is proud of its close association with so many Christian churches.

A request addressed to The Secretaries, American Bible Society, Bible House, Astor Place, New York City, will bring a copy of the "Managers' Report," with a full account of the last completed year's work.

ASSOCIATION OF METHODIST HISTORICAL SOCIETIES

The Association of Methodist Historical Societies was organized in Philadelphia, December 10, 1925, by representatives of the Methodist Historical Societies, in Boston, New York, Baltimore, and Philadelphia, for the purpose of associating the Methodist Historical Societies of America, for co-operation in the preservation and display of all Methodist Historical material, and the dissemination of information concerning the same.

The membership is to include the Historical Societies of all the branches of American Methodists. At present the membership includes the New England Methodist Historical Society, the New Hampshire, New York, Philadelphia, Central Pennsylvania, Wilmington, Baltimore, West Virginia, and Ohio Societies.

The Association is very much interested in the promotion of two important matters, the placing of the name of Francis Asbury in the Hall of Fame, and, secondly, the appropriate celebration of the Sesquicentennial of the Organization of the Methodist Episcopal Church. It was upon Memorials prepared by this Association that our last General Conference appointed a commission for the celebration of the Sesquicentennial.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Methodist Historical Societies to join with this co-operative Association.

BUREAU OF ARCHITECTURE

Offices:
1701 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa.
740 Rush St., Chicago, Ill.

The Bureau is maintained jointly by the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension and the Board of Education. Its purpose is to help churches of all types to get new building and remodelling plans of the highest grade at the lowest possible cost. It offers to the churches of the denomination the services of well-trained men and the results of the experiences of many churches in every section of the country.

The services of the Bureau are rendered under the following general heads: (1) Providing typical plans; (2) reviewing plans secured elsewhere; (3) office consultations; (4) publication of literature on the various phases of building and remodelling; (5) preparation of publicity material for a building campaign; (6) the employment of architects; (7) preparation of preliminary plans; (8) full preliminary service; (9) full consulting service; (10) research service; (11) working drawings and specifications, and supervision of construction; (12) furnishing and equipment programs; (13) parsonages; (14) field visitation.

In all of its work the Bureau seeks to keep abreast of the times in respect to developments in church building needs. It has been a leader in the field of religious educational buildings. It has been an effective force in directing the attention of the church to the relation of worship and building arrangements. Its literature has helped to a very great extent in developing an appreciation of the church building as the House of God.

The Bureau renders a great deal of service free of charge to the churches. This free service includes blueprints of preliminary plans used in similar situations, printed materials containing suggestions for the building program and its organization, and personal counsel and advice in its two offices. Then it renders all other services involved in building or remodelling a church, this service charged for at the lowest possible cost. The Director will visit a church for his expenses. Competent engineers and architects will make a thorough study of the situation on the ground for their expenses and a consultation fee of from $15 to $25. When more than one church is visited on one trip a division of the expenses is made. In this connection it should be noted that many of the better advisory agencies charge from $100 upward for this service.

One feature of the Bureau's effort is to keep churches from signing building contracts which cannot be safely financed. While it frequently recommends comprehensive programs, its plans provide for an expansive program which permits building in units over a period of years or so that at some future time definite remodellings can be accomplished without wasting what has already been invested.

On December 1, 1930, plans in the Philadelphia office in various stages of development represented a church building valuation of $3,000,000. During the twelve months ending November 30, 1930, the Bureau counselled with and in various ways aided in new building projects totalling in value more than $30,000,000. In a single week recently it posted more than 300 pieces of mail. The annual inquiries run into the hundreds, and are increasing in number every year. The church is using the Bureau more and more.

It cost during the fiscal year $60,000 to operate the Bureau. Of this amount $42,385 was collected from the field for services rendered.

A questionnaire is provided for use in making a study of a local situation. Churches can secure it, together with the other free literature, by writing the Bureau. The services of the Bureau are always more satisfactory if used at the very beginning of the building movement before any plans are discussed.

THE COMMISSION ON COURSES OF STUDY

Broadly speaking, the Commission on Courses of Study is charged with the supervision of ministerial training in the Church so far as this is carried on by agencies outside colleges and theological schools.

Three groups are here served:

1. The men who look to the regular ministry and membership in the Annual Conference. These men fall into five groups, viz., those taking the course leading to the examination for admission, and those in the four years of the regular course. The total in any given year is over seven hundred.

2. Local Preachers. The especially important portion of this group is composed of those who are full-time pastors. These men are now required to take a regular course under the direction of the Conference Board, and cannot be employed unless they have taken such a course. The importance of this work is seen from the fact that on the average somewhat more than one out of three of the charges in our Annual Conferences are "left to be supplied."

3. Ministers who have completed their formal training in college and seminary or through the Conference Course but who wish aid in the systematic continuance of their studies.

The first two groups may be treated together, since the policy of the Commission has been increasingly to raise the requirements for the second group and to give them all the advantages available for the first group. The activities of the Commission in serving the first two groups may be indicated as follows:

1. It prepares a Course of Study. This receives the continuous attention and study of the Commission, with aid from outside expert sources. It includes in some cases the preparation of special texts under arrangement by the Commission. Courses for foreign-speaking Conferences in this country are here included with the Conference and Local Preachers' Course in English.

2. The preparation of Handbooks. In the change in plans made in 1916, when the Commission began its work, the most important was the preparation of a series of handbooks designed as the main aid in transforming into a system of education what had been mainly a system of examinations. There are now eight of these Handbooks, aggregating over 17,700 pages. One is for the members of the Conference Boards, five go with the regular Conference Course, one being for the Admission course and one for each year. Those for the four years of the Local Preachers' Course are bound in two volumes. For the student these books replace, as far as possible, the services of the instructor in the school, giving directions at every stage, with practical suggestions and help. The Conference Handbook (issued for the Conference Board members) supplements this and together these afford the basis for an effective and yet simple correspondence school, which covers our whole Church and operates at a minimum of expense.

3. A system of Summer Schools forms an integral part of the plan. There were last year some forty of these schools in this country, with an attendance of approximately 2,000 students and leaders, in addition to some in other lands where the Commission co-operated. Financially, the Commission gives aid enough to encourage an investment by the Annual Conference. On the educational side it keeps in closest touch with these schools, helping to plan courses, select faculty, maintain standards, suggest methods, etc. These schools secure intimate personal contacts between the students and the members of the Conference Boards, leaders from our theological schools and the general ministry of the Church, etc. They enforce and supplement the correspondence methods throughout the year.

4. "The Evanston Conference." It is a significant element in this plan that it relies mainly upon the regular local agencies of the Church as represented by the Annual Conferences, utilizing the notable talent that is there found. Only so is it possible to carry on at such a small expense the training of several thousand candidates for the ministry. That means, however, that contact must be maintained with these local agencies and a constant work of direction, inspiration, and co-ordination carried on. "The Evanston Conference" has proven an indispensable means to this end, with over ten years of approved service behind it. It gathers together eighty to one hundred responsible leaders in the Conference Boards and the Summer Schools for several days of conference, constructive criticism, comparison of methods, and instruction.

5. Individual contacts. By correspondence and personal visitation the Executive Secretary maintains contact both with those who are carrying on this work throughout the Church and with the students themselves. He visits the Annual Conferences and Summer Schools, not only making addresses but also holding personal conferences with leaders and students. While much of this is through circular letters, each letter aims at specific ends. For example, each year there come to the office hundreds of letters from students and instructors giving, in response to specific requests, the reactions of these correspondents as to the value of the Courses and the plans of work, points to be corrected or strengthened, etc.

6. The Supply Pastors (Local Preachers) are more and more being reached by all these agencies, their attendance upon the Summer Schools and the requirement that they shall pursue their studies regularly under the Conference Boards being of especial importance. For the first time in the history of our Church a thorough-going plan is being followed to aid and supervise the studies of these men upon whose leadership the Church depends in some of the most needy and difficult fields of service. By action of the last General Conference Local Preachers who are candidates for Deacons' Orders must pass the four years' course of study for Local Preachers, and complete the course entitled A Study of John's Gospel, as provided by the Commission on Courses of Study. Those who are candidates for Elders' Orders must complete the course entitled Pauline Christianity.

7. Graduate Courses. There remains to be noted the work with men in the pastorate who have completed their formal training, whether in the schools or through the Conference Course. The chief need of these men is for some plan by which, instead of desultory reading, there may be systematic study. Such study is a necessity to-day for even the best-trained men if they are to keep abreast of changing problems and advancing knowledge, and if they are to remain intellectually alert, spiritually alive, and effective as preachers and religious leaders. There is only one outstanding educational institution which provides courses in the general field of religion for study in absentia and the expense in this case is quite heavy.

The Commission is meeting this need by providing a series of Graduate Courses of Study, now eight in number, with others in preparation. Each Course has been prepared by an expert in his respective field and is in charge of an expert as instructor. The student works with a group of required books for reference and a series of lessons giving specific directions and aid. The work that is done is regularly submitted to the instructor in charge and receives his criticism and comment before being returned. Up to date some 2,200 have been enrolled in these courses. This work is growing steadily, even rapidly. In quality it may be compared with that done in our graduate schools of theology, the instructors being in the main from the faculties of these schools.

8. Recommended Reading Lists. Counsel as to books and the preparation of recommended reading lists also form a part of our plans. These lists are sent to all of our ministers.

Finally, it should be kept in mind that the most important function of the Commission is not to assume directly the work of training the many men who are dependent upon this agency, but rather to enlist, to co-ordinate, and to direct the forces that are available in the Church. It is probably a fair estimate to say that the cost to the Church, direct and indirect, of a year's training for a student in the regular theological schools would exceed five hundred dollars, and the training is worth far more than that to the Church. The small cost of our work to the Church per student is due to the fact that we utilize these other agencies, first of all the Conference Boards, and then the men furnished by our theological schools and by the regular ministry.

This task, however, of enlisting, directing, and co-ordinating these agencies means a contact with the whole Church, maintained continuously throughout the year, and reaching thousands of individual leaders and students. When one recalls that in this country alone we have 90 Annual Conferences with 90 Conference Boards, approximately 1,670 members of the same, the students in the Conference Course, in addition to those enrolled as Supply Pastors and in the Graduate Courses, it becomes apparent what the work is that rests upon the Executive Secretary and his office force.

A LIST OF NEW BOOKS—1930

Recommended by The Commission on Conference Courses of Study

Andrews, C. F.: Mahatma Gandhi's Ideas; Macmillan, 1930, $3.00.
C. F. Andrews, an English University graduate, is an intimate friend of Gandhi's of many years standing. His book is sympathetic, but objective and most revealing.

Brightman, E. S.: The Problem of God; Abingdon Press, 1930, $2.50.
Philosophical in its treatment, but direct and readable in style. Faces courageously the modern objections to theistic belief.

Bower, W. C.: Character Through Creative Experience; University of Chicago Press, 1930, $2.50.
The discussion ably represents the modern point of view and deals especially with character development.

Brown, William Adams: Pathways to Certainty; Scribner, 1930, $2.50.
An unusually timely book telling how men find God and how they may have certainty in religion.

Davies, J. Newton: Rightly Dividing the Word; Abingdon Press, 1929, $2.00.
Illuminating studies of some of the significant words and teachings of the New Testament.

Dodd, C. H.: Authority of the Bible; Harper & Bros., 1929, $3.00.
Dodd, formerly of Mansfield College, has succeeded to the chair of the late Professor A. S. Peake at Manchester. The book ably combines scholarship and the evangelical emphasis.

Drawbridge, C. L.: Common Objections to Christianity; S. R. Leland, 1930, $3.25.
Especially valuable to those who have to contend with unbelief in such forms as atheism, materialism, naturalism, humanism, and the like.

Enslin, M. S.: Ethics of Paul; Harper & Bros., 1930, $4.00.
Claims that Paul's central interest was the ethical, and that the theological was merely instrumental to this. A decidedly fresh and original treatment.

Horton, W. M.: Theism and the Modern Mood; Harper & Bros., 1930, $2.00.
One of the most readable of the recent attempts to face clearly the problem of non-theistic humanism.

Hough, Lynn Harold: Science and Personality; Harper & Bros., 1930, $2.00.
A convincing presentation of the claim that science, so far from lessening the significance of personality, only accentuates it, since science is itself an achievement of personality.

Jones, Rufus M.: George Fox, Seeker and Friend; Harper & Bros., 1930, $2.00.
A compact but illuminating biography by one of the best-known living mystics, himself a member of "The Society of Friends."

Knudson, Albert C.: The Doctrine of God; Abingdon Press, 1930, $3.50.
A thorough consideration of the belief in its more theological aspects. A plea for the reinstatement of the intellect as a means of reaching the truth of God.

Luccock, H. E.: Jesus and the American Mind; Abingdon Press, 1930, $2.00.
In the author's best vein—witty, caustic, searching, constructive. The mind of America is contrasted with the mind of Christ on certain great fundamental issues.

McConnell, F. J.: The Prophetic Ministry; Abingdon Press, 1930, $2.00.
The Yale Lectures on Preaching for 1930. The lectures find their inspiration in the work of the Hebrew prophets, and plead eloquently for the maintenance of the prophetic ministry to-day.

Nevius, W. N.: The Meaning of the Moral Life; Noble & Noble, 1929, $2.25.
An excellent study of ethics. Critical of mere naturalism. Pervaded by a fine philosophical spirit. Sympathetic toward religion.

Nixon, Justin Wroe: An Emerging Christian Faith; Harper & Bros., 1930, $2.50.
A clear and helpful discussion of the present-day religious situation and of the faith for the day.

Oesterley, W. O. E., and Robinson, T. H.: Hebrew Religion; Macmillan, 1930, $2.50.
A capable and readable account of the origin and growth of the religious ideas and institutions of the Hebrew people.

Scott, E. F.: The Gospel and Its Tributaries; Scribner, 1929, $2.75.
Finds that the Gospel of Christ owes something to outside influences, and discusses these frankly, but insists on an element at the center of it profoundly original.

Tittle, Ernest F.: The Foolishness of Preaching; Henry Holt, 1930, $2.00.
A volume of sermons. At once modern and conservative. Models of combined scholarship, lucidity, and fervor.

Vaughan, R. M.: Significance of Personality; Macmillan, 1930, $2.50.
Argues for the supremacy of personality, and for the propriety of interpreting existence accordingly. Offers constructive suggestions as to how this may be done. A fine Christian apologetic.

Vieth, Paul H.: Objectives in Religious Education; Harper & Bros., 1930, $2.50.
Presents the findings of the outstanding leaders in religious education. Emphasizes the need of adequate content as well as of adequate technique.

Wright, C. J.: Miracle in History and Modern Thought; Henry Holt, 1930, $6.00.
A brave attempt to reinstate the conception of the true supernatural. The best book on the subject in many years, and worth all that it costs.

THE GOODWILL INDUSTRIES

The Origin of the Goodwill Industries

Thirty years ago, in Morgan Chapel in the slums of Boston, the Goodwill Industries had its inception. Dr. E. J. Helms is the founder of the movement. As pastor of the little Morgan chapel he conceived the "Goodwill Idea."

The work has now expanded in Boston until it has become a million dollar plant, with Dr. Helms as its executive.

The "Goodwill Idea" spread across the country about the year 1920 until now there are about sixty institutions now running or about to start.

The name "Goodwill Industries" was first used by the Brooklyn City Mission—"Goodwill Employment Center for Men and Women." The name has been adopted all over the country as the official name of these Goodwill plants.

Two slogans are used: "Not Charity, but a Chance," which was suggested by The Cleveland Goodwill Industries; and "Not for Profit, but for Service," suggested by The Cincinnati Goodwill Industries.

The Bureau of Goodwill Industries, which is under the Department of City Work of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was established in the annual meeting of the Board in November, 1918, and the constitution and by-laws were adopted by the annual meeting of the Board in November, 1919. It supervises the work of the thirty-four Auxiliary organizations now operating.

Purpose and Functions

The Goodwill Industries is an enterprise or social agency which provides an opportunity for training, rehabilitation, and employment for the handicapped, the disadvantaged, and aged people; supplies clothing, used furniture, and other articles to people of limited means, at reasonable prices through Goodwill stores; and conducts religious and social service activities for those reached through Goodwill work rooms and stores. In some cities a regular church is connected with the Goodwill Industries, which ministers to the community in which it is situated.

Organization

The Goodwill Industries are of two kinds: Auxiliary and Affiliated organizations.

An Auxiliary organization is an authorized member of the Bureau of Goodwill Industries, and pays national dues to the Bureau.

An affiliated organization is not a constituent member of the bureau and does not pay dues, but is associated with the Goodwill movement and sends representatives to its national institutes held annually.

COMMISSION ON WORSHIP AND MUSIC

The General Conference of 1928 ordered the appointment of a Commission by the Board of Bishops on Worship and Music, to consist of five bishops, five other ministers, and five laymen. Report number six, adopted May 14, was in part as follows: "We recommend that this Commission be instructed to prepare, in accordance with the recommendation of the Episcopal Address, at least two Orders of Public Worship, which shall be printed in the Discipline in place of Paragraph 72 for the use of our churches. We recommend that in each Annual Conference there be appointed a Commission on Worship and Music to cooperate with this general Commission within the several Conferences." As the outcome of careful consideration during three sessions of the Commission several Orders of Worship have been prepared, and now have been sent forth, awaiting the judgment of the Church before final adoption. The "Wesley Sunday Service" is included for occasional use. Based on the Book of Common Prayer of the Church of England, this was adopted by our Church in 1784, while the revision made by the Protestant Episcopal Church was not adopted until 1789.

THE WESLEY FOUNDATION

Office: 740 Rush St., Chicago, Ill.

There are 1,037,469 students enrolled in the four-year course colleges and universities in the United States. Of that number more than 950,000 are in non-Methodist institutions. The Wesley Foundation exists to help the Methodist Episcopal Church take adequate care of its young people in that group of 950,000.

The following is a statement of the principles which guide the administration of the Foundation.

I. The objectives are—

To encourage the culture of the spiritual life
In terms of worship and service;
To provide the developing intellectual life of students
With an adequate basis of religious thinking
That a wholesome Christian view of life
May be achieved;
To establish students
In the acceptance and practice of Christian ideals
In all human relationships.

Dr. Warren F. Sheldon,
Secretary, Wesley Foundation Joint Committee.

To offer to college youth
A normal church experience
Where faith may be fortified by reason;
Moral earnestness may grow with scientific knowledge;
And where technical skill
In promoting Christian purposes
Through the church and in society
May keep pace
With increasing mastery over material forces.

Dr. Jesse S. Dancey,
Pastor of the Collegiate Church, Ames, Iowa.

To make the church as vital a factor
In the life of the student in college days
As it must become in the after years
If life is to maintain its spiritual vision, its mental poise and its moral dynamic.

CHAPEL OF THE FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Tucson, Arizona

II. The principle of co-operation with other denominations wherever possible is followed consistently.

III. In view of the limited resources available, the Foundation is devoting its energies chiefly to the centers already established rather than starting new ones. New ones are launched only where there is sufficient local support to maintain them.

IV. The financial support of the work must come increasingly from the constituencies providing the students—the local churches, Conferences, and areas as such. No longer can the work be carried on by dependence upon connectional funds appropriated by the church boards.

V. The solicitation of special gifts calling for World Service credit is to be discouraged, except where the gift is in addition to the regular World Service contribution of the donor. In order that adequate support may be provided, the Wesley Foundation should be given a column in the Annual Conference Minutes statistics in the section for "Annual Conference Benevolences." Several Conferences are now doing so.

The extent of the work of the Wesley Foundation is indicated by the number of centers it serves. For a complete list of these centers, see the Directory section.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF LOCAL PREACHERS

This Association was formed for the purpose of uniting more closely all accredited Local Preachers in fraternal intercourse and brotherly co-operation in all church work which is in harmony with the doctrines and polity of the church; affording relief wherever possible to any sick or disabled members of the Association; and to work to secure adequate Pension legislation by the General Conference for the worn out and indigent Supply Local Preachers. Local Preachers residing within the bounds of an Annual Conference may organize auxiliaries or branches of the Association. The Association maintains a Mutual Aid Fund which is sustained by membership dues and administered by a Board of Managers. (See Directory section for names and addresses of officers.)

PHILADELPHIA MISSIONARY AND CHURCH EXTENSION SOCIETY OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Incorporated October 30, 1888

The Board of Managers, composed of 24 ministers and 26 laymen, meets monthly on the third Monday of the month at 2:30 o'clock, excepting July and August.

The object of this corporation is to establish and aid Methodist Episcopal Churches, Missions, Sunday Schools, and other agencies for the advancement of the cause of Christ in Philadelphia and vicinity. It is subject to the discipline, usage and ministerial appointments of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States of America. It conducts a large mission program, including work in downtown churches, in polyglot communities, and among foreign-speaking people. It has a hospital chaplain who ministers to the sick Methodists in all the hospitals in Philadelphia, apart from our own Methodist Episcopal Hospital. It helps maintain Daily Vacation Bible Schools in many of its Units. It conducts a successful recreation farm known as the Carson Simpson Recreation Farm at Willow Grove, Pa., where hundreds of underprivileged children are given outings in the summer time. It organizes new churches, secures plots of ground and builds thereon chapels for their housing. Eighty churches in Philadelphia and vicinity have been organized and promoted by this Society.

WORLD PEACE COMMISSION

150 Fifth Ave., New York

A historical statement concerning the World Peace Commission, Methodist Episcopal Church, was printed in the year book of 1930. This statement has to do simply with the activities and program of the Commission during the last year. The Commission's work has been along the following lines:

Participation in the Tenth Anniversary Program of the League of Nations with other peace organizations, January, 1930.

Co-operation in the Third National Study Conference on the Churches and World Peace, the latter part of February. Our Church's quota was twenty-five delegates, which the Commission was able to fill.

The Commission co-operated with other peace organizations during the period of the London Naval Conference on limitation of naval armaments, securing the support of many people throughout the country who sent letters and telegrams to the President and to delegates at London urging real reduction.

"The Army and Propaganda Power," a speech delivered in Congress, January 10, 1930, by the Honorable Ross A. Collins, on expenditures of the Army mounting year by year, was sent to all our pastors.

The field work of the Executive Secretary has extended from coast to coast. He has spoken in twenty-nine local churches, eight Annual Conferences, seven Preachers' Meetings, four camp meetings, seven colleges, several service clubs and church-school classes, taught a class in international relations in four Epworth League Institutes, and attended fifty-one committee meetings of various kinds related to the work of peace education, delivering in all ninety-three public addresses, besides informal discussions with small groups. He traveled during the year 21,000 miles.

The Commission has compiled a list of 400 to 500 peace education projects which have been successfully worked by ministers, church-school teachers and directors of religious education, service clubs, women's organizations, young people's organizations, individuals and various groups.

The Commission, with the support and co-operation of the American Friends Service Committee, who extended financial help, and the Epworth League office in Chicago, trained and sent out seven young men who taught in fifty-eight Epworth League Institutes, to 3,220 students, a course entitled "A Great Modern Adventure," on the subject of world peace.

The Commission has provided the following textbooks for church-school classes and study groups:

"Highways to International Good Will," by Walter W. Van Kirk, with a teacher's manual by Dr. Albert E. Kirk of the Board of Education.

"Thinking It Through," World Peace Commission Edition, by Evelyn Riley Nicholson.

The Commission has published a booklet entitled "Four Peace Plays With Worship Services," especially useful for young people's services, programs and Sunday evening.

The Commission has also published a cycle of twenty-one Hymns of World Peace and the Holy Spirit.

It has published 45,000 copies of the pamphlet, "Methodism and World Peace," outlining the peace education program now being developed in Methodism; 41,000 of these have been distributed free of charge.

The Commission during the year distributed 5,000 copies of the report of the Third National Study Conference on the Churches and World Peace and several hundred copies of pamphlets and leaflets on various phases of the subject of world peace.

The Commission prepared and published an Armistice Sunday Program consisting of responsive reading, prayers, peace hymns, etc., which was used extensively through the Church.

A letter enclosing Armistice Day folder with suggestions for Armistice Day observance and descriptive order blanks of Armistice Day literature, Armistice Sunday Program and peace hymns was sent to all Methodist pastors.

During the year the Executive Secretary has written and had published in various church publications fifteen articles on various phases of the question of world peace.

Co-operation during the latter part of the year was given to the Committee on Militarism in Education in Iowa, where there is a campaign to make compulsory military drill illegal in the schools. Five thousand letters, with a "broadside," giving the position of educators, editors, churchmen and many prominent Iowans on compulsory drill, how it is out of harmony with modern education, was sent to as many prominent people in the State urging their co-operation in the campaign. The letter gave the position of the Methodist Church as against all military drill in high schools and against compulsory military training in colleges and universities.

As the year closes, the Commission, with the co-operation of the American Friends Service Committee and the Epworth League office, has under way plans whereby twenty-five to forty young pastors will take a two weeks' training course in world peace and Epworth League methods, and teach these subjects, each in two or three Epworth League Institutes in the summer of 1931.

CONFERENCE BOUNDARIES

Territorial Areas, Population, Number of Charges, Number of Members, and Ratio of Members to Population

The arrangement of what follows is not ideal from a statistical point of view, but it is the best time and space permit in this instance. Several aspects of the data require explanation. (1) The population figures are of the 1930 census. (2) Unless otherwise noted, the membership figures are from the 1930 Conference reports—an asterisk (*) indicates 1929 figures. (3) The population figures in the case of the Colored Conferences are "total population," the separate white and colored populations not being available when this table was compiled. This last means that the ratio of members to population in the Colored Conferences is not to colored population, but to total population in the territories involved. (4) No population figures for the foreign-speaking Conferences are given, for obvious reasons. (5) Since Conference boundaries do not always follow the political boundary lines, care has been taken to include as accurately as possible in the population figures only the territory included in the "parts of counties" involved.

The data for the Conferences outside the United States have been taken from the current annual report of the Board of Foreign Missions.

ENROLLMENT IN METHODIST SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES FOR 1930-31

The total enrollment this fall in the colleges and universities sponsored by the Methodist Episcopal Church is 63,350. This figure, based on reports to the Board of Education, shows an apparent decrease over last year's figures of 67,240, but final figures from Boston University departments which were not available when this was compiled will bring the number of students to about the same figure as last year.

GENERAL INFORMATION

THE HONOR ROLL

Methodist preachers who have reached the Patriarchal Age of Ninety Years are entitled to a place in this list.

The suggester of this Honor Roll was the Rev. W. F. Steele, a member of the Colorado Conference and for many years a Professor in Denver University. He is now on the retired list and lives with his daughter in Panama Canal Zone. He has always taken a deep interest in it and because of him we have a largely increased list each year, and also a prospective list ready as each year comes. The first name of this list has passed one hundred years.

*These men, starred, were born when the Methodist Church was one, but when they were old enough to unite with a Conference, it was two. They are members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. In this list we are one in the Lord.

THE METHODIST CHURCH OF MEXICO

The "Commission on Federation in Mexico," constituted by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a similar commission of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, together with representatives from the Conferences of these two churches in Mexico, met in the chapel of Union Theological Seminary in Mexico City on Monday morning, July 7, 1930, at 9 o'clock. When this conference adjourned Tuesday evening a new church had come into being—the Methodist Church of Mexico.

Although the new church is autonomous, with all of its ministers being native-born Mexicans, the mother churches will continue to co-operate with it for several years through financial subsidies. This co-operation will be secured through a "Council of Co-operation," consisting of sixteen members, representing the parent churches and the church in Mexico, to which will be referred all matters having to do with the financial subsidies, all items concerning the property now owned under the authority of the mother churches, and all items concerning the foreign missionaries.

With only a few changes, made necessary by legal requirements in Mexico, the constitution of the new church is the same as that of the mother churches. The General Rules were included without revision. The Articles of Religion were retained "for historical reasons," although, of course, Paragraph 23 had to be modified.

The Commission decided that the first General Conference of the new church should be held beginning September 16. As it seemed best to authorize as large a first General Conference as possible, it was voted to call as official delegates all the full members of both Annual Conferences in Mexico, and one layman from each charge served by a full member of an Annual Conference. In order to make the lay and ministerial delegates equal in number, eight lay delegates at large were provided to equal the eight district superintendents. The General Conference met in Mexico City on the assigned date in the historic church at 5 Gante. Ninety delegates were present. The Conference was organized and committees named the first day. The second day the Committee on Episcopacy recommended that the bishop be elected for four years only, without re-eligibility. The Episcopal residence was fixed for Mexico City, though later it was voted that if necessary the residence might be elsewhere. On Friday, September 19, the Reverend John Nicanor Pascoe was elected bishop. He was consecrated on Sunday, September 21.

Bishop Pascoe was born forty-three years ago in San Telmo, State of Mexico. He went through the mission schools in his country and received his higher education in Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tennessee. Returning to his native land, he held the important churches of Balderas Church, Mexico City; Chihuahua; Saltillo; Allende; San Antonio, Texas; and Monterey, where after being pastor, he became superintendent of the district of the same name. He is widely known and well-beloved by both old and young. His wife is as widely and favorably known as is her husband, her activity in women's work being of an outstanding character and quality.

The new church begins with over 15,000 members. Bishop Pascoe was elected as fraternal delegate to the next General Conferences of the two mother churches in the United States.

A NEW KOREAN CHURCH

A cablegram received by the Board of Foreign Missions a few days before the Year Book went to press gives the information that the missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Korea, were united into an independent Methodist Church on Monday, December 8, 1930. The Rev. Ju Sam Ryang, a Korean pastor, who has for six years served as superintendent of the Siberian-Korea Mission, the organization of the Church, South, carrying on Christian work among Koreans resident in Siberia, was elected the first bishop of the new church. Bishop Ryang is a graduate of Vanderbilt University and of Yale University. He is chairman of the Korean National Christian Council, and was a delegate to the Jerusalem Meeting of the International Christian Council in 1928.

The new Methodist Church in Korea will have a total membership of about 25,000; an ordained Korean ministry of 125; and will have some 800 churches and chapels.

THE HISTORIC SESSION OF THE CENTRAL CONFERENCE IN CHINA

From the Report by Perry O. Hanson, Shantung, China.

The Bishops elected IN China, FOR China, were consecrated Sunday, March 2, 1930, in the Ku I Lan Church, Nanking.

The election and the consecration of the Reverend C. P. Wang, Ph.D., and the Reverend John Gowdy, D.D., as Bishops of the Methodist Church in China, opens a new era in the work of this great field. Moreover, they were the first to be chosen under the new legislation of the last General Conference. It had been the hope among missionaries that two Chinese would be elected and this was doubtless in the thought of many in the homeland. However, it will be remembered that Central Conference and "All China Conference" action in 1928 was a request for one Chinese and one missionary, so the election in Nanking was in harmony with the memorial sent to the General Conference.

Three General Superintendents of the church were present throughout the Conference—Bishops L. J. Birney, F. J. Keeney, and J. L. Nuelsen.

There were fifty-five regular delegates in attendance. Two of the ten Annual Conferences, Kiangsi and Shuntung, had straight Chinese delegations, each having two men with advanced degrees from American Universities. The remaining eight Conferences included twelve missionaries in their delegations, three of the number being Lay and nine Ministerial, most of them among the oldest now in active service.

Balloting for the bishops began on the third day of the Conference. Much preliminary work had been done through two days of meetings of Committees on Episcopacy and Temporal Economy, and during two days of the regular Conference sessions. Careful consideration had been given to every problem involved in the proposed action. Among other decisions was that of a four year term for the Bishop, with eligibility for re-election up to the age limit indicated for General Superintendents. The salary was fixed at $250 Mexican per month with generous allowance for rents, travel, etc. It was voted that the church in China should follow the rule of the mother church in meeting the claims of the Episcopacy, paying 2⅛ per cent of all pastoral support into this fund. This will mean that from the start no help will be required from the Book Committee to finance the one Chinese Bishop.

Just before the first ballot was taken, it was voted that the delegates might vote for two Chinese, or for one Chinese and one missionary, but not for two missionaries. This gave more freedom of expression than was possible under the earlier decision to vote only for one Chinese and one missionary, though the outcome was the same.

The first ballot produced the scattering, complimentary result always seen at General Conference. Throughout the voting, there was but one defective ballot cast.

Bishop Nuelsen was in the chair when the seventh ballot was reported by the tellers and graciously yielded to Bishop Birney, the only person in China who had the right to announce the result of that vote. It was a great moment when the announcement came that the Reverend John Gowdy had been elected Bishop.

Bishop Keeney was presiding when the tellers came in with the report of the fourteenth ballot; he insisted that Bishop Birney should have the honor of announcing the election of the first Chinese Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. With manifest emotion, the Bishop reported that the Reverend C. P. Wang had been elected. Most unfortunately, Bishop-elect Wang was sick and unable to be in his seat, so Bishops Birney and Keeney went in person to convey the glad news to the person who had been elected to the highest position in our church.

Bishop Wang's residence was fixed at Chengtu, West China. Bishop Gowdy is assigned to residence in Foochow with supervision of the four Fukien Conferences.

Bishop Birney continues in the Shanghai area as assigned at Kansas City.

A strong Committee on the State of the Church gave long hours to several vital questions which were brought before the Conference and a challenging Program was adopted. The Five Year Movement, already adopted by the individual Conferences, will be developed aggressively. The knotty question of registration of schools was met in the decision to make formal appeal to the Government asking for full freedom of worship; local conditions vary so greatly that no general rule can apply to all of our schools, but the effort everywhere and always will be to see to it that the schools are maintained as strictly Christian institutions.

The Conference adjourned with every delegate and visitor determined to go forth to bring things to pass for our Christ. It is the hope of every missionary and Chinese colleague that the good friends in the mother church will stand by and render all possible service to the China daughter during these important days.

THE UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

Instituted June 10, 1925, by the Union of the Congregational Churches of Canada, the Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and the Local Union Churches in Western Canada. The church is administered by a General Council, which meets every two years, and the following Boards: Education, Foreign Missions, Evangelism and Social Service, Home Missions, Missionary and Maintenance Fund, Literature, General Publicity and Missionary Education, Pension Fund, Publication, and Religious Education. In addition, there are the following Standing Committees: Church Worship and Ritual, Historical Matters, Inter-Board Committee on Women Workers, Law and Legislation, and Woman's Missionary Society.

Headquarters: Wesley Building, 299 Queen St., West, Toronto, Canada.

Officers of the General Council: Rev. William T. Gunn, Moderator; Rev. T. Albert Moore, Secretary; Rev. Robert Laird, Treasurer; Mr. H. W. Barker, Deputy Treasurer.

There are eleven Conferences as follows: Newfoundland, Maritime, Montreal and Ottawa, Bay of Quinte, Toronto, Hamilton, London, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia. These Conferences are divided into Presbyteries.

Statistics: Number pastoral charges, 3,059; number preaching places, 7,483; total resident full membership December 31, 1929, 595,178; total non-residents, 55,811; number Sunday schools, 6,009; total membership, including officers and teachers, 616,419; total value of all church property, $90,670,095; total debt on all church property, $8,448,660; total salaries paid ministers, $5,349,530; grand total raised for all purposes, including ministers' salaries, $16,831,717.

THE GENERAL MINUTES

The General Conference provides that The Methodist Book Concern publish each year a carefully edited and official record of the statistics and Disciplinary business of all the Annual Conferences, Mission Conferences, and Missions of the church. The publication is known as the General Minutes, and is issued in two volumes—one including the Spring Conferences and the other the Fall Conferences. The first part of each volume contains the Disciplinary Questions and Appointments; the second part contains the reports of the Statisticians and Treasurers, together with recapitulation tables giving the grand totals of all items. Between the two sections is a list of the ministers who have died during their Conference years, arranged by Conferences. At the end of each volume is an index of the ministers whose appointments are recorded therein. The names of the retired ministers are also included in the index, but thus far it has not been possible to include their addresses too.

It requires a great deal of editing of the Annual Conferences' reports to insure a complete and accurate record in the General Minutes. Every name and figure is carefully checked. In editing the General Conference Minutes for 1930 more than seven thousand mistakes were discovered—and not a single Conference was exempt. That fact explains why the General Minutes do not agree with the Minutes of the Annual Conferences.

The General Minutes were first published in 1773. From then until 1869 they apparently were edited by the Publishing Agents. From 1869 to 1890 they were edited by Joseph Longking. From 1891–1901 by A. B. Sanford. From 1901–1910 by S. V. R. Ford. And from 1910–1930 by Oliver S. Baketel. The present editor, Frank Wade Smith, began the work May 1, 1930.

Copies of the General Minutes can be secured from The Methodist Book Concern for $1 per volume—$2 for the set covering the year.

WHY THE ABINGDON PRESS?

Many people wonder why The Methodist Book Concern publishes some of its books under the imprint "The Abingdon Press." The answer is that this name was adopted for trade purposes, precisely as the Presbyterian publishing house uses the name Westminster Press and the Congregationalists use the name The Pilgrim Press. Obviously some of our publications are serviceable in other churches. But can you imagine many churches of other denominations being eager to put into use in their church schools and elsewhere books bearing the name "The Methodist Book Concern" upon them? The name "Abingdon" was chosen because the first Methodist college in America was so named. It was located at Abingdon, Maryland.

FIFTY YEARS A COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Dr. Judson S. Hill became the president of Morristown Normal and Industrial College, Morristown, Tenn., fifty years ago and has served in that capacity ever since, being the first and only president of the school. He is probably the oldest college president in the United States in point of service.

A CENTURY-OLD METHODIST COLLEGE

Which is the oldest Methodist College in America? Randolph-Macon, at Ashland, Va., claims the distinction. Its charter is dated February 3, 1830. The Rev. Stephen Olin was the first president. He afterwards became president of Wesleyan at Middletown, Conn. The college was located first at Boydton, Va., near the Carolina border. During the Civil War it was closed. It was reopened at Ashland, which is near Richmond, in 1868, with Dr. James A. Duncan as president. Since 1902 Dr. R. E. Blackwell has been president. Among the graduates of Randolph-Macon are many prominent ministers, including three bishops, together with scholars, teachers, judges, and other leaders. Walter Hines Page, editor and diplomat, is in the list. Randolph-Macon has belonged to the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for nine tenths of its century.

GENERAL GEORGE WASHINGTON'S PRAYER FOR THE NATION

This prayer is found on a bronze tablet near President Washington's pew in Saint Paul's Church, New York City

Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government, and entertain a brotherly affection and love for one another and their fellow citizens of the United States at large. And, finally, that Thou wilt most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, without whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation. Grant our supplication, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

METHODISM ON THE AIR

Early in October the church papers printed a request for information about the broadcasting activities of our ministers and churches. Only sixteen replies were received. The information they contained follows:

Altoona, Pa. First Church, J. McKendree Reiley, minister. Morning services every Sunday through Station WFBG.

Anderson, Ind. Park Place Church, John Ward Rose, minister. Sunday evening services regularly through Station WHBU.

Ann Arbor, Mich. First Church, Frederick B. Fisher, minister. Sunday morning services occasionally over WWJ, Detroit.

Buffalo, N. Y. Asbury-Delaware Church, Bruce S. Wright, minister. Sunday evening services regularly over WBEN, Buffalo.

Clarinda, Iowa. First Church, David J. Shenton, minister. Morning service regularly over KSO.

Honolulu, Hawaii. First Church, John Hedley, minister. Evening services regularly over KGU.

Long Beach, Cal. Long Beach District, Walter C. Loomis, District Superintendent. A District broadcast Sunday mornings from 8:30 to 9 o'clock over Station KGER. "The service costs $20 a Sunday, and is supported by the churches of the District."

Mansfield, Ohio. First Church, William B. Armington, minister until September. Sunday morning service over WJW during Conference year 1929–30.

Pittsburgh, Pa. Emory Church, W. W. T. Duncan, minister. Morning services once in three Sundays; through summer months every Sunday. Station WCAE.

Sandpoint, Idaho. First Church, J. Fred Stilwell, minister. Sunday morning services regularly over KGKX.

University of Southern California, Los Angeles. The daily chapel service over KMPC, Beverly Hills. "The hospitals in the city, that have ear-phones at the cots, tune the master radio to this program each morning." Bruce R. Baxter, Assistant to the President, conducts the service.

The Rev. Ralph Welles Keeler, minister of Goodsell Memorial Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., broadcasts regularly for the Evangelistic Committee of New York over the Columbia network.

The Rev. T. B. McDivitt, minister of Grand Avenue Church, Enid, Okla., broadcasts occasionally over KCRC.

The Rev. George A. Simons, Chairman of the Jubilee Fund Commission of Baltic and Slavic Annual Conference, New York, is on the air frequently over various New York stations—WEAF, WJZ, and WOR. He delivered a series of addresses during the fall on Russia.

The Glee Club of our church at Mountain Top, Pa., was on the air during the fall over Station WBRE, Wilkes-Barre, Pa. This organization is under the leadership of the minister, Charles C. Volz.

The Rev. Lee Ashton, minister of our church at Lenox Dale, Mass., was in charge of morning devotions for the Federal Council broadcast over WEAF occasionally.

The Rev. T. P. Potter, statistician of the Year Book and General Minutes, conducts the Friday noon service of the Y. M. C. A., New York, over station WPAP.

For the past eight years the Book Concern Radio Church School has been on the air every Sunday morning over WLW at Cincinnati. The teaching of the lesson is done by members of the Church School Editorial Staff and the Book Concern family, or by such other persons as are approved and available. Teachers are required to prepare written manuscripts for the broadcast. The broadcast is at 9:30 A.M. (Eastern Standard Time). There is a large mail response.

MISSIONARY SALARY SCHEDULE

The following schedule of salaries for the Missionaries of the Board of Foreign Missions is now in effect:

1. Basic salary for married missionaries:

$1,400—India (except Indus River); Africa (except North Africa); Central China (except Shanghai), Chengtu, Chungking, Hinghwa, Kiangsi, South Fukien, Yenping.

$1,500—Europe and North Africa; Latin America; Burma; Indus River; Shantung; Foochow.

$1,600—Malaya; Netherlands Indies; North Sumatra; Philippine Islands; North China; Shanghai.

$1,800—Japan and Korea.

2. Basic salary for single missionaries:

$900—India; China (except North China).

$950—Africa (except North Africa); Burma; North China.

$1,000—Europe and North Africa; Japan; Korea; Latin America; Malaya; Netherlands Indies; North Sumatra; Philippine Islands.

Single missionaries maintaining separate establishments may receive $100 a year in addition to the basic salary, if necessary because of local conditions.

3. Salary increases for married missionaries, over the basic amount granted for years of service:

$100—After five years' service.

$200—After ten years' service.

$100—Additional after 25 years of service.

Salary increases will be computed from date of arrival on the field; but due consideration may be given for years of pre-field service as an effective member of an Annual Conference, as a practicing physician, including two years of approved interne service, or for recognized educational work. This is not to include the years of part-time service while engaged in study. Salary increase for single missionaries, over the basic amount, will be fifty per cent of the amount of increase for married missionaries for the same period.

4. For cause shown, an increase of ten per cent on the basic salary may be provided for missionaries resident in port cities, or in other centers where living costs are generally recognized as excessive; and a similar increase of not more than ten per cent on the basic salary may be granted to heads of major institutions.

5. Allowances for children:

$150 a year for each child up to five years of age.

$200 a year from five up to fourteen years of age.

$250 a year from fourteen up to twenty-one years of age.

An additional $100 a year may be granted when the child is in college in the United States. This allowance may be continued up to the twenty-second birthday if the child is till in college. Children's allowances cease when the child enters remunerative employment.

6. The salary of the missionary will begin one month before the date of sailing, unless he is engaged in remunerative employment.

7. The basic salary for all married missionaries on furlough will be $1,500, plus service increase and children's allowance, with an allowance toward rent, if necessary, as follows:

$35 monthly for man and wife.

$5 monthly, addition, for each child living with the parents.

8. The basic salary for all single missionaries on furlough will be $900, plus service increase, with an allowance for rent up to $20 a month, if necessary.

SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY READING COURSE

American Universities today recognize quite generally an obligation to their Alumni, former students, and friends. Syracuse University, in seeking a way to render this definite service, has organized a systematic reading course. Dr. Will Durant, author of "The Story of Philosophy," who recently was appointed Director of The Syracuse University Reading Course, will direct a course of reading as a regular part of the adult education plan of the School of Extension Teaching and of Adult Education.

Dr. Durant will have associated with him in this project some twenty-five members of the regular Faculty, who will assist him in preparing reading directions and material for volumes with which they are thoroughly familiar.

Dr. Durant has selected a list of between 80 and 90 volumes that will comprise the reading course, which is to be completed in five years. The individual task will be to read approximately twenty books per year.

The books in this course are not expensive volumes. The majority of them will cost approximately one dollar per volume. The only cost to the reader in connection with the course is the price of the volumes to be read annually. Syracuse University thus seeks to serve in a project which will furnish them directed reading help and so bring its Alumni into direct contact with Dr. Durant and his assistants upon the Syracuse University faculty.

The titles of the books indicate many fields covered by the volumes selected. The object includes history, politics, philosophy, theology, biography, travel, drama, art, painting, ethics, economics, poetry, prose, fiction, psychology and science. The course is aimed to widen the information and knowledge of the reader. The selected list of volumes is a broad one and will provide a wide range of topics. The main feature of the course, however, will be the help which those directing the reading of each volume will give.

The reading directions will include the following:

1. A word about the author.
2. A word about the country and time in which the work was written.
3. The reasons why the book is valuable.
4. A guide to the more important parts of the book.
5. Some general comments upon the book.

A list of questions will be sent the reader when he has finished each volume. These questions will indicate the main results the reading of the volume should produce. When the five years' course is completed, a certificate will be given the reader indicating his success in completing the course.

This service will begin February 1, 1931.

THE MISSIONARY EDUCATION MOVEMENT

150 Fifth Ave., New York

This is an interdenominational organization in which boards of home and foreign missions and departments of missionary education from seventeen denominations unite to publish missionary education material and to hold conferences for the training of the missionary leadership of the church. Methodism has always been actively represented in the movement since its organization twenty-eight years ago and continues to be interested, furnishing this year two of the most important officers of the Board of Managers, two of the employed secretaries, and five authors of textbooks.

The foreign missions theme for the year's study was India and the home theme the Caribbean Islands, both extremely timely and important. The publication program of the year covered all grades from primary to adult. Fourteen new books were published totaling 197,700 volumes and in addition there were reprints of eight books previously published. Six substantial pamphlets were issued for the special use of leaders and these were supplemented by maps, plays, pictures and handwork.

It is interesting to note that the last two years have seen the largest demand for missionary education material in the history of the Movement. The volume of sales in 1929 broke all existing records and those for 1930 were only slightly smaller.

This increase in demand has been paralleled by two things: first, a recognition of the great possibilities of using missionary material in religious education, and, second, the creation of a new type of material for use with children. Perhaps the outstanding development during recent years has been the production of the new Friendship Press Texts for children. These are project courses on various mission fields, built according to the best standards of education. So well have they commanded the respect and admiration of educational leaders that a number of outstanding authorities have spoken of them as offering some of the best material for religious education now being published. Their use is steadily increasing as they become better known.

At one time missionary education was limited to the use of a very few books and a meager supply of supplemented material. It was common to speak of "the book of the year." Now there are many books of many sorts to meet the needs of many churches. Books are no longer necessarily used only in one year, but are recognized as offering permanent material which may fit into several different varieties of religious education. To meet such needs the Missionary Education Movement has greatly enriched its publication program and is making a very real contribution to the religious education of the church life today.

The officers of the Movement are:—

George F. Sutherland, Chairman.
William A. Hill, Vice-Chairman.
Philip S. Suffern, Treasurer.
Harry S. Myers, Recording Secretary.

Educational Division

Franklin D. Cogswell, Secretary.
Hazel Orton, Secretary of Elementary Work.
Walter Getty, Secretary of Leadership Training and Promotion.
T. H. P. Sailer, Honorary Secretary.

Business Division

Gilbert Q. LeSourd, Secretary and Assistant Treasurer.
Merton A. Nicholas, Assistant.

ECUMENICAL CONFERENCE OF 1931

The next Ecumenical Methodist Conference will be in Atlanta, Ga., October 16–25, 1931. This Conference is held every ten years, the one in 1931 being the Sixth. The last one was held in London in 1921. To facilitate the organization and administration of the Conference, Methodism is divided into an Eastern Section and a Western Section. The former is headed by Dr. H. B. Workman of London, England, president of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. The Western Section met in Washington, D. C., February 5, 1930, and elected the following officers: Chairman, Bishop W. F. McDowell; Vice-Chairman, Bishop E. D. Mouzon; Secretary, Dr. T. D. Ellis, Louisville, Ky.; Associate Secretary and Treasurer, Dr. James R. Joy, New York. The Western Section will have 330 delegates and the Eastern Section 220. Those of the Western Section will be alloted among the various branches of Methodism in the United States, Canada, Japan, Mexico, and the missionary fields of these groups. The chairman of the Program Committee for the next Conference is Bishop F. D. Leete. The subject will be, "Methodism in the Life of To-day."

DISTINCTIVE CHARACTERISTICS OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

BISHOP F. J. MCCONNELL

"In discussing the essentials of Methodism it is well for us to remind ourselves at the outset that Methodism shares with other churches the common heritage of Catholic Christianity. As an offshoot of the established Church of England Methodism has always held fast to the cardinal doctrines which have come down from the beginning of Christianity. The doctrines of God, of Christ, of the meaning and dignity of human life which prevail in Methodism are essentially the same as those of all the churches which we call evangelical. If, for example, it were proposed to try a Methodist minister for heretical views as to the Person of Christ, there would be no distinctively Methodist phrasing of the doctrine to be accepted as standard. No doubt certain Methodist authors would be quoted, but the quotations would be found to embody the doctrine which the church has held from the beginning. If a Methodist minister should be tried for disbelief in immortality, defense and prosecution would both soon discover that belief in immortality has reached no distinctive formulation at the hands of Methodism. The belief has been assumed as part of the common heritage of the Christian Church.

"If we look at Methodism historically, we soon discern that all its doctrines and ceremonials and rules for practice have to do with their effect on inner spiritual experience. The Methodist movement arose as a protest against formalism in theology and ritual and practice. The early Methodists made no war on the Church of England except in the attack upon its lack of spirituality. It has been said that Methodism began when John Wesley found his heart 'strangely warmed,' and that the center of the power of Methodism has always been its emphasis upon inner experience. It is as if our forefathers found ready-to-hand doctrinal statements and ritualistic observances and rules of conduct which they proceeded to fill with a new life.

"What is distinctive in Methodism, then, is the emphasis upon religious experience. There are not Methodist doctrines so much as Methodist accents upon commonly accepted doctrines. There is not a Methodist ritual so much as a Methodist spirit in the observance of ritual. There is not Methodist conduct so much as an inner life out of which conduct is supposed spontaneously to arise. In this booklet we propose to call attention to four points upon which Methodist emphasis distinctly falls. The Methodist believes in Conversion, by which he means a passage from moral deadness to moral life which profoundly affects the whole course of the life. Historically the church has stood for a belief in Entire Sanctification, by which is meant practically the extension of spiritual influences to all parts of a man's nature. Further, the church believes in the religious training of children, holding to the doctrine that the child born in a Christian home belongs by birth to the kingdom of God, in the sense that he is entitled to and can respond to divine influences from the beginning. Finally, the Methodist, true-to-type, believes in an inner satisfaction of spiritual life which he calls Assurance, or the Witness of the Spirit. As a practical implication of this doctrine, the church has maintained from the beginning that the claims of spiritual life have the right of way in the treatment of dogmas and rituals and schemes of church organization.

"Of course, it will be understood that this does not mean that any Methodist who understands himself will claim that his denomination has a monopoly of the emphasis on the points of view just mentioned. In some form conversion and sanctification and the training of childhood and the insistence upon the primacy of the rights of intimate religious experience are given emphasis in all evangelical churches. As a matter of fact, however, the Methodist emphasis turns distinctively around these four points. These comprise the practical working creed of Methodism."—Introduction to "Essentials of Methodism," published by The Methodist Book Concern. Copyrighted 1916.

INTERPRETING THE RECORD

Here is the record. What does it say?

Because the Year Book is published as soon after the end of the year as possible, there is no time to include in it any interpretations of the statistics and reports. Those who secure it as soon as it is published must make their own interpretations, pending the editor's interpretations which will be published later. Therefore the following suggestions.

Our Church has a large membership and constituency. Most of the totals in the statistical tables run into the tens and hundreds of thousands, and several into the millions. To be evaluated aright, therefore, all increases and decreases must be reduced to a percentage basis. A gain or loss of 50,000 members distributed over 25,000 churches means an average of 2 members per church, and 1 per cent of a total membership of 5,000,000.

Mistakes in reporting statistics, especially of membership, are very common. In editing the reports sent in by the Conferences for the General Minutes, between 7,000 and 8,000 mistakes are discovered every year. Undoubtedly there are as many more which are not and cannot be discovered. Most of the mistakes originate in the pastors' reports to the Conference officers.

Further, in respect to the membership statistics, there are several factors at work which make it necessary to interpret the figures. One is the slip-shod manner in which many churches keep their membership records. Some churches never drop a name until the individual dies or takes his letter. Others have periodic urges to revise the roll, usually when a new minister arrives to succeed one who has served the church several years. In one year one such church may make a slash into the totals of a Conference that will wipe out the substantial gains of many other churches. Then we are in the days of church mergers—community and federated churches are increasing rapidly, and all denominations contribute members to them. At present we have no effective method of gathering statistics about this item. Also, it is a day when multitudes are moving from one place to another, many of them not taking their church letters, and so eventually becoming numbered among those "removed without certificate." Finally, there is a growing number of people who affiliate in the organized work of the local church but do not join the church in a formal manner.

No defense can be made of the foregoing—that is not the business of a statistician. They are simply factors we must keep in mind when we study statistics of memberships today, especially in respect to our Church. They should prevent us from making hasty conclusions or being swept into agreeing with others who make hasty conclusions.

In this connection we should be warned against a too ready acceptance of "comparative statistics" in which groups of denominations are placed side by side. The variables involved are so numerous, and so persistently not noted, that the conclusions suggested, at least, are decidedly misleading. What constitutes membership is not the same in the denominations. Further, no two gather and compile their statistics in the same manner. Those two items alone are the despair of careful statisticians, but usually unmentioned by those who prepare general publicity articles on the growth, or lack of it, of the churches. Remember that this is a matter similar to the game of golf; in the latter a man plays against his own score, with par as a standard; in church statistics a church must always be compared with itself, and there is no "par" to serve as a standard.

The benevolence statistics should be subjected to the same careful consideration. There are factors involved which do not appear on the surface. A decrease in one item may be offset by an increase in another. The benevolent interest of people shifts—one year it may be predominantly in foreign missions, another in hospitals, another in local benevolences, and then suddenly it may fade into a passion for "building and repairs." Increases and decreases here may be more clearly explained by studying the totals of the monies raised by the Church. Such a table is included in the Statistical Section of this Year Book.

The thing to remember, finally, is to be careful NOT to read into the figures a story that is NOT there.

THE CHURCH AT WORK

In order to assist the various organizations in preparing their reports for this issue of the Year Book, the following "information" was prepared and sent to them early in the fall and before we had received reports from any of them. It explains just what we had in mind for the section of the Year Book devoted to reports of the organizations. How far we have realized the idea can be determined by referring to the section on "The Church at Work." The information in that section was provided by the organizations. In some instances considerable editorial work had to be done on the materials provided, but in no case was any fact bearing upon the work of the organization the past year deleted. We are hoping that the next issue of the Year Book will contain more specific information about the programs and achievements of our various organizations—that it will truly present a picture of HOW, and to what extent, our Church is justifying the support it is receiving in the way of loyalty, trust, service, and money.

Information for those who prepare reports and materials for the YEAR BOOK of 1931

The next YEAR BOOK will be a hand-book of facts and information bearing upon the question, "What is the Methodist Episcopal Church, and what is it doing at present?"

It will be organized to satisfy two important needs: (1) provide important information about our Church and its activities so it can be found with ease and precision; (2) be a textbook or guide for use in informing our people progressively about our present programs and achievements.

The success of the plan depends upon HOW the reports of the organizations are presented. The discursive style used in recent years is not desired. There will be no place for generalities. What is wanted is concisely worded statements of facts, grouped in a uniform manner as outlined below. There will be no place for "appeals" as such. The facts must make their own appeals, and all interpretations will be contained in the Editorial section. A uniform arrangement and phrasing of headings, and the use of various type-faces, will save space and make for adequacy of statement. The controlling principle is a maximum of information in a minimum of words—and the information should be of a verifiable nature.

Perhaps that seems a blunt way to state the case, but we are practicing here what we desire done in the YEAR BOOK materials. And to be more specific, we will list just what we desire about the various organizations.

1. A short historical sketch of the organization, not over 100 words.
2. A 50 word statement of the present purpose or function of the organization.

3. An outline of the administrative scheme of the organization with a short statement of the functions of each department.
4. List of the activities classifiable as "regular" or "continuous"—a tabular statement of your program. Under each item state what has been done during 1930.
5. List of new projects or new phases of old projects begun during 1930, and a statement of what was accomplished under each.
6. List of projects planned for 1931.
7. The statistics you desire used in the YEAR BOOK.
8. A 100 word statement by the chief executive officer of the organization of what he considers the chief achievements of the year 1930.
9. Whatever else you consider important enough for inclusion in the YEAR BOOK.

The object of the above is not to limit the contents of reports, but to secure uniformity of presentation and ground covered.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS

It appears from the statistics reported elsewhere in this issue of the Year Book that church building has been one of the chief interests and enterprises during the past year. Therefore, it is fitting that we feature church buildings in the illustrations. From a great variety of pictures available we have selected a few which seem to be fairly typical. As an example of what is "strictly American" we have included the picture of the century-old church at Brockton, Mass.

Perhaps it should be said that interiors predominate in the collection because "building for worship" is being stressed so much at present. The interiors included are fairly representative of the way many congregations are striving to secure harmony between the building and its purpose. However, it should not be concluded that the choice is always in favor of the Gothic style. It happens that we have not been able to secure pictures of other styles which are sufficiently representative for use herein.

The editor is indebted to Dr. Elbert M. Conover for help in selecting the pictures of the churches. Especial mention should be made respecting the picture of Dr. George Elliott. This is from a picture taken by Dr. James R. Joy at Springfield, Mass., during the General Conference of 1924.

UNREALIZED AMBITIONS

This issue of the Year Book does not contain some features included in the original plan. This information is not given as an apology, however; it is offered for just what it is worth in throwing light upon what might be, and we hope will be, included in later editions.

An attempt was made to include a list of the churches and ministers "on the air" during 1930. Early in October all the church papers carried a request for information on the subject—names, stations, number and nature of broadcasts, etc. Just sixteen replies were received. Although it is undoubtedly true that many more of our ministers and churches broadcast frequently, if not regularly, we are keeping faith with those who took the trouble to send us the information. The information will be found in the section on General Information. It is hoped that next year's Year Book will contain a complete listing of all the broadcasting efforts of the denomination.

Another unrealized plan was to have in this Year Book a digest of the outstanding work done in the local churches, grouping them by Conferences. Early in the summer questionnaires were sent to all of the District Superintendents in the United States, which would make it easy for them to report the desired information. There are 414 District Superintendents. We received returns from 142, and one of those neglected to sign his name or give any other evidence of where the reply originated. Not a single Conference provided returns from all of the districts. Unfortunately, the information sought is of a nature that such partial returns do not warrant tabulating it. Again, we hope for better things next year.

It was also hoped that this Year Book should include a section in which an interpretation of the year's statistics would be made. But such a feature is next to the impossible; the final statistics are not in hand in time. About the best the Year Book can do is to publish the facts, and then leave the interpretation of those facts to a later time—provide them in the church papers. But the editor of the Year Book hopes that future issues will contain something of this nature, although he realizes now that to do so will mean an extensive change in our methods of gathering data.

Lastly, as far as this statement is concerned, there was the ambition to arrange the Year Book so it could be used as a textbook for use in instructing both young and old in the way our Church is organized, how it works, and just what it is doing at present. It will take at least another year to realize that idea—and then only a beginning will be made.

As a matter of record, it should be said that this issue of the Year Book was not planned until after May 1st, the date on which the present editor began his work on it. The summer months which immediately followed were not conducive to gathering data. In fact, profitable efforts did not really begin until September. To be useful, the Year Book must be started about six months before the year to be covered actually begins. Next year's Year Book is already in the making.
